James H. Porter Gives $100,000 to Wesleyan

On October 1 front-page headlines in the Macon papers and in the extra edition of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate announced a gift of $100,000 to Wesleyan by James H. Porter in memory of his wife, Olive Swann Porter, who died August 3.

Mr. Porter, Macon philanthropist and for 13 years a trustee of Wesleyan, stated that he wished to make this gift for the repurchase of the Wesleyan buildings "if Methodism and friends of the college would promptly subscribe the balance". That they have every intention of doing so was clear the morning after announcement of Mr. Porter's gift when the campaign fund was considerably increased. Today, as the magazine goes to press, a total of $480,000 has been subscribed to the fund, leaving only $120,000 of the $600,000 needed to be raised.

The Olive Swann Porter Building

In accordance with Mr. Porter's request, the student activities building has been named The Olive Swann Porter Building. It is appropriate that the building which is the center of hospitality on the campus should bear the name of this woman who was a leader in religious, civic and social life in Macon, a gracious hostess, and a staunch friend.

Mrs. Porter was past regent of the Mary Hammond Washington Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and for several years a member of the state board of directors of this organization. She held the office of librarian in the local chapter. She was also a member of the Morning Music Club, of the Colonial Dames of America, of the Daughters of the American Colonists, of the Sidney Lanier Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, of the Bibb County Garden Club. She was an active member of Mulberry Street Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter have always been very much interested in young people, Mrs. Porter especially in Girl Scouts; Mr. Porter in the Girl Reserves of the Bibb Manufacturing centers. Having no children of their own, they have assisted literally hundreds of boys and girls to obtain an education.

James H. Porter

Of the memorial for Mrs. Porter at Wesleyan, Mr. Porter said, "I wished her name associated with an institution dedicated to the high ideals of womanhood for which Wesleyan stands".

Other Benefactions

It would be impossible to tell of every church, school, and charity to which Mr. Porter has given generously, partly because he does not tell of his benefactions and partly because, if all were known, the list would be too long. Practically every church and public institution in Macon has at one time or another received a substantial gift from him. He is the largest single contributor to the Community Chest.

His gifts are not limited to his own city; he has contributed toward the erection of churches near Columbus and in Porterdale. They are not confined to his denomination; he helps Mulberry Street Methodist church, but has also helped churches of other denominations, and schools sponsored by other denominations, only last year giving the Mercer gymnasium building. They are not limited to his own race; the Baptist Negro College in Macon owes its existence to him.

He is interested in people, their religious life, their education, their betterment in every phase of life.

Wesleyan Attitude Toward Porter Gift

Through the generosity of one man, the remainder necessary for Wesleyan's redemption was reduced the first week in October by almost half. The Wesleyan Advocate announcing the gift was in the hands of every Methodist minister in the conference on Sunday morning, October 1, and was doubtless announced from every pulpit. Methodists everywhere sent up a prayer of thanksgiving.

The Alumnae Council, meeting at the college on October 7, expressed to Mr. Porter their deep appreciation, and pledged themselves to renewed efforts to complete the fund. Faculty, trustees, and individuals all told Mr. Porter of their gratitude. But no doubt the thing which pleased him most was that a group of Wesleyan students, presidents of classes and organizations, went to see him personally and presented to him a silver vase, designed to hold the roses which he grows so beautifully at Porterfield and bearing the inscription:

"James H. Porter
With the appreciation of the Wesleyan Students
1939"

ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS

Inspired by Mr. Porter's gift, Mr. W. D. Anderson, trustee, wrote to a group of Georgians offering to add $5,000 to his subscription in the hope that they would join him in this effort to settle Wesleyan's financial problem immediately.

The following responded, most of these subscriptions being in addition to the donor's previous pledge:

Mr. W. C. Bradley and Mr. D. A. Turner of Columbus

Mr. Samuel Dobbs of Atlanta

Mr. B. P. O'Neal, Jr. of Macon

Mr. Mills B. Lane of Savannah

Mr. T. K. Glenn of Atlanta

Mr. Eugene Stetson of New York

Besides the $35,000 obtained from these gifts, other friends and alumnae have sent in $13,203, making a total of $48,203 since Mr. Porter's gift.

The entire balance to be raised as of October 31st is $110,668.

Wortham Bequest For Endowment

The many friends of Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham, A. B. 1875, trustee of Wesleyan, were grieved to learn of her death on September 13 at her summer home near Charlottesville, Virginia. She was buried in Macon, in the family vault in Rose Hill cemetery.

To the two institutions which she loved most, Wesleyan College and Mulberry Street Methodist Church, Mrs. Wortham left her entire estate to be divided equally, the former bequest in memory of her husband, the latter of her father. The only surviving Dunlap sister, Clara (Dunlap) Badgley of Middleburg, New York, retains a life interest in the estate.

Family Long Associated with Wesleyan

In 1851 Mary A. E. Burge of Macon entered the freshman class at Wesleyan. Later she married Samuel S. Dunlap of Macon, and sent her five daughters to Wesleyan: Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham, A. B. 1875, Florine (Dunlap) Starke, A. B. 1878; Lillian (Dunlap) Stevens, A. B. 1882; Clara (Dunlap) Badgley, A. B. 1884; and Ilah (Dunlap) Little, of the class of 1885.

Of these sisters, three died during the past year, Mrs. Stevens in April at her home in Macon; Mrs. Little in July in Karlsbad, Germany; Mrs. Wortham in September. Mrs. Starke died several years ago and an only brother, Samuel S. Dunlap, Jr., ten years ago.

In 1932 Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham was elected Alumnae Trustee of Wesleyan by the entire alumnae body. On the completion of her three-year term of office, she was made an Honorary Trustee for life by the Board.

Her love for the college was deep and sincere. Seeing the need, during her trusteeship, for additional endowment for Wesleyan, she determined to make her gift to the college for this purpose, and it was so specified in her will.

Appreciation of Alumnae

The following appreciation of Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham was written by one who knew her well and loved her, Ida (Mangham) Coleman, A. B., 1890:

" 'Her memory is the shrine
Of pleasant thoughts, soft as the scent of flowers,
Calm as on windless eve, the sun's decline'.

"In the death of Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham sorrowing friends turn for consolation to the contemplation of her life, for she was all that is good and true, as her devotion to her family, her loyalty to her friends, her contribution to the civic, religious and social life of Macon for a half a century testify.

"She was 'Nettie Pleasant' to her intimates, and truly deserved the name; there has not been in my recollection a woman more dearly loved or more greatly admired than 'Nettie Pleasant'. She won my heart when I was ten years old, in her Sunday School class at Mulberry Street Methodist church. She continued to hold my affection and esteem through all the years of joy and sadness that made up her life. She and her splendid, handsome husband were prominent in the state because of their personality, the hospitality of their charming home, and their generous response to the calls of city, state, and country. They traveled extensively, spending many summers in Europe.

Nettie (Dunlap) Wortham, A.B. 1875

"Among Mrs. Wortham's activities were chairman of the Hospital Auxiliary, chairman of the Victory Bond Drive, Board member of Baconsfield Park, Trustee of Wesleyan College, member of Mulberry Street church, member of patriotic organizations, member of the Phi Mu fraternity.

"With bowed heads we pray that our beloved Nettie Wortham is reunited with her loved ones, and we know she is a radiant star in Heaven."

The Board of Trustees of Wesleyan passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS information has reached the trustees of Wesleyan College that the late Mrs. Nettie Dunlap Wortham of this city provided in her will a substantial bequest for the endowment of the College, the same to be designated as a memorial to her husband, the late Henry M. Wortham, and

WHEREAS the said bequest will greatly strengthen the College and promote the high quality of its work for the womanhood of this generation and those that come after us, and

WHEREAS the size of this bequest, though not yet officially announced, is known to be of such substantial nature as will forever enroll the name of Mrs. Wortham among the foremost benefactors of the College, THEREFORE, we, the Executive Committee of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees, desire to record our deep and perpetual gratitude to Mrs. Wortham for her devotion to her alma mater as a student in her youth and as a trustee in the later years of her life.

We also desire to convey to Mrs. Clara Dunlap Badgley, the only surviving member of the Dunlap family, our sympathy and condolence in this hour of bereavement for her beloved sister.

We would also recommend to the entire board that suitable action be taken to memorialize Mrs. Wortham in an appropriate way.

Bishop Hughes Speaks On Opening Day

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes

The one hundredth opening day at Wesleyan was an appropriately inspiring occasion, with Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C., one of America's greatest preachers and platform lecturers, as speaker.

Bishop Hughes has been for 31 years a bishop in the Methodist church, and is recognized as one of the most eloquent and thought-provoking speakers in the church. He is a former college president, having directed the affairs of DePaw University for many years. Bishop W. N. Ainsworth in his introduction of Bishop Hughes, paid high tribute to his colleague, senior bishop of the former Methodist Episcopal Church, for his leadership for unification.

Bishop Hughes spoke on "The Perils of Knowledge" telling the students that "The best things in life can be dangerous if you get the wrong relationship to them; fire, water, and even religion, which is the greatest force in the world and the most dangerous when wrongly related to man." This is true of knowledge, he said, and he maintained that "the light of the intellect must be supplemented by the light of moral emotions".

It is significant that the purpose of the founders of Wesleyan was the joining of the forces of the intellect and the spirit in education as evidenced by the words on her seal, "Scientia et Pietas," and Bishop Hughes proclaimed the responsibility of Wesleyan in this regard.

Present at Wesleyan for more than a day, Bishop Hughes expressed pleasure in being permitted to "set foot upon the campus of Methodism's oldest college for women", as he had formerly done upon the campus of Wesleyan University, the church's oldest college for men, in Middletown, Connecticut.

After his return to Washington Bishop Hughes wrote to Mr. William D. Anderson of the Wesleyan Board of Trustees: "You have a tremendous opportunity there. I do not know when I have seen more attractive and promising young ladies than are now in the institution. When it is definitely known in the entire church that there is no danger of closing the college and leaving a great many fine students as educational orphans, students will come from all directions."

Among the New Girls This Year

This year seven alumnae granddaughters and twelve alumnae daughters entered Wesleyan for the first time.

One of these girls, Rosa Lee Jones of Macon, has a heritage which few girls in the world could claim. In the days when colleges for women could be counted upon the fingers of one hand, the women of her family were taking degrees at Wesleyan. The first of these was her great, great-aunt, Ann E. (Burkhalter) Colquitt of the class of 1851, a photostatic copy of whose diploma is in the Wesleyan Historical collection. Rosa Lee's two grandmothers, her mother, and fifteen aunts and great-aunts came to Wesleyan. In her list of Wesleyan alumnae cousins, too lengthy to name, is one which Wesleyan girls of many years will remember affectionately, Ria (Weaver) Burks, alumna and teacher of English.

In the spring Rosa Lee Jones entered the essay contest for the Dorothy Blount Lamar Scholarship to Wesleyan, writing on the history of the college as she knew it from reminiscences and writings of her forebears. In the preparation of this essay she found much interesting material and realized the truth of Christopher Morley's statement that "to be deeply rooted in a place that has meaning is perhaps the best gift a child can have."

Edward Shorter Gives Painting to Wesleyan

Among the most recent additions to the Wesleyan collection of paintings and sculpture by contemporary artists, is "The Eagle Scout" by Edward Swift Shorter, of Georgia and formerly of Macon. Helena E. (Ogden) Campbell, who has assembled the collection for Wesleyan, saw Mr. Shorter's New York exhibition at the Studio Guild and invited him to contribute to the Wesleyan collection. He is the first Georgia artist represented in it.

At a meeting of the Association of Georgia Artists, held in Macon in October, Mr. Shorter was elected president for the coming year. He also held the office of vice-president of the Southern States Art League, and is state chairman of the American Artists Professional League.

He studied four years at the Corcoran Art School in Washington under the late Edward Tarbell, Burlis Baker, and Richard Merryman. In summers he studied with Lester Stephens in Rockport, Mass., and won a scholarship to the Breckinridge School for painting at Gloucester. He worked also in Provincetown, Mass., under the late Charles Hawthorn.

He says of his study abroad: "I was in Europe for a year and a half and studied first at the Fontainebleau School and later in Paris with Emile Renard, whom I found a warm and stimulating personality. Since my return from Europe I have had the good fortune to spend three summers in Elizabethtown, N. Y., with Wayman Adams, a good friend and an excellent teacher.

"As for travel, I have been singularly fortunate, and besides the usual European jaunts, have had interesting trips to China and Japan, as well as South America. I have had two trips to Soviet Russia and seven months of painting in Mexico."

He is a member of the North Shore Art Association, of the Society of Washington Artists, of the Washington Landscape Club, of the Southern States Art League, of the Washington Art Club, of the Atlanta Art Association, of the American Artists' Professional League, and of the Chicago Art League. He has won blue ribbons for drawing in the Southern Art Exhibition in Nashville, Tenn., in 1926; honorable mention in Georgia Artists Exhibitions in 1928, 1932, and 1934; and honorable mention in the Southern States Art League Exhibition in

Among his best paintings are: "Man of Capala", a Mexican portrait study, "Farm in the Valley", a landscape; "Betrayal", a fine portrait of a jobless man staring grimly ahead, the photograph of a sleek labor leader on the cracked wall behind him; and "Survivors", showing a weatherbeaten tree beneath which trudges a horse pulling an old-fashioned buggy.

He painted the portrait of Sallie Boone, A.B. '87, which hangs in the Mercer University library where she was for many years librarian.

Mr. Shorter was the first president of the Association of Georgia Artists, and is a past president of the Macon Art Association. He has always given generously of his time and talent to any artistic enterprise in Macon, and it will be remembered that he was art consultant for the Wesleyan Centennial Pageant, "The Smile of Promise" in 1936.

About Former Teachers and Officials

Mrs. White

Mrs. Florrie Cook White, for 32 years matron in charge of Wesleyan's Infirmary, writes from Emory University, where she has been visiting her son, Dean Goodrich C. White, to send love to all her "old girls". She spends some of her time with the son and daughter-in-law and their two fine boys at Emory, some with her sister, Mrs. Atkinson, in Newnan, some with her brother, Dr. Ed F. Cook and his wife Annie (Cargill) Cook of the class of '85, in Macon, some with her nephews, Dr. Harold Atkinson and Mr. Malory Atkinson in Macon. Her sister, Margaret Cook, of the class of 1888 is with her having retired from her 35 years' service as a missionary in Japan.

Mrs. White was ill in September and early October, and the family was saddened by the death of Mrs. Goodrich White's brother in Nashville, Tennessee at this time.

"Miss Margaret" writes that Mrs. White is better now, and is looking forward to a visit from her daughter, Bettie Lou (White) Fisher, A. B. '13, from Chicago.

Miss Grote

Wesleyan girls were disappointed that Miss

Ernestine Grote, head of the physical education department, was not at Wesleyan when the college opened this fall. Although she is recovering, she is still not strong enough after her automobile accident of a year ago, to return to her work. Dorothy DuPuis, A. B. '38, is supplying in the physical education department, and Miss Mildred Cartledge, who came to Wesleyan last year as Miss Grote's assistant, is acting head of the department. Letters may be addressed to Miss Grote in care of her sister, Mrs. E. E. Ellison, 900 East Jackson Street, Pensacola, Florida.

Miss Carpenter

Miss Elizabeth Carpenter of Verona, New Jersey, who taught voice at Wesleyan from 1920 to 1926, arrived in Macon in September for a six weeks' visit with her friend, Mrs. H. M. Reid on Hill Crest Avenue.

Miss Carpenter is still the attractive, handsome person she was when she was on the Wesleyan faculty. She has been doing some radio and dramatic work in addition to her private teaching in New York and New Jersey, and had a part in a play on Broadway last year.

Miss Garner

Miss M. Virginia Garner, formerly head of the journalism department, visited friends in Macon in April, and was the center of many social occasions while she was here. She had been in New York for three weeks with a nephew, and said that she found it as simple to return to her home in Arkansas by way of Macon as any other way!

She visited one of her pupils, Isabella Harris, A. B., '26, in Washington, D. C., and stopped in Baltimore with relatives on her way south.

Miss Wallace

Several of Miss Anne Chenault Wallace's Macon friends visited her at her home near Asheville, N. C. this summer, and report that she has an attractive new home about ten miles from the city. She has had trouble for the past several years with her eyes, but is greatly improved after treatments at Johns Hopkins.

Miss Wallace was head of the speech department at Wesleyan from 1912 to 1935.

Mrs. Emily Allen Siler

Mrs. Emily Allen Siler, who was a teacher at Wesleyan from 1886 to 1903, died in Waynesville, N. C., in January 27, 1939. Added to her duties as assistant English teacher, she was lady principal of the boarding department, and "mothered" some three, or four hundred girls every year.

She was appointed by Bishop Haygood as one of the five women to organize a woman's board of home missions, which afterward became the Woman's Missionary Council. She was a co-worker with Miss Belle Bennett and Misses Lucinda and Mary Helm.

During recent years she suffered blindness, but retained always her cheerful, happy disposition. Her home at Lake Junaluska was always open to visitors to the Assembly, and she kept in touch with her old pupils, sending messages to their class reunions, recalling incidents of their college days.

Her niece, Hope Wilder, of the class of 1907, has given as a memorial to Mrs. Siler, the room which she occupied at the old Wesleyan building on College Street.

James Camillus Hinton

Mrs. James C. Hinton, widow of Wesleyan's first Dean and beloved teacher of mathematics, recently gave to the college Professor Hinton's speeches made in chapel and at other college gatherings during his lifetime. Among these is the manuscript of Dean Hinton's talk on "Optimism", which appeared in the Wesleyan Alumnae magazine in October, 1925.

It is appropriate that in the plans for memorial rooms at Wesleyan, the Dean's Office is set aside to be named for Professor Hinton.

Dr. Whitman

This fall, for the first time in 25 years, Dr. Iris Lillian Whitman did not return to Wesleyan as professor of Spanish and German. Dr. Whitman came to Wesleyan in 1914, and had been for a number of years head of the department.

Last year her sister, Mrs. H. L. McLean of Wilmore, Kentucky, died after a long illness. Dr. Whitman, who had made her home during every college vacation with this sister and her husband, made her decision in the summer to give up her work and make a home for Dr. McLean.

She has had sent to her in Kentucky many of the rose bushes which she took such pleasure in growing on the back campus, so we know she is gardening. Her Wesleyan friends, remembering the suppers she used to give for her classes and the excellent candies she made at Christmas, have no fears that Dr. McLean will be underfed!

Wesleyan Clubs

Margaret (Zattau) Roan, vice-president in charge of clubs, this year compiled and had printed a Handbook for Wesleyan Clubs, the first ever issued. It goes out to club presidents this fall, and will be a great help to them in planning their programs for the coming year. Margaret has visited many of the clubs during her term of office, and through her influence a number of new Wesleyan clubs have been organized. She will be glad to give her personal attention to any alumnae who wish to start a Wesleyan group in any town. Her address is: Mrs. A. M. Roan, 991 Oakdale Rd., Atlanta, Ga.

Atlanta

Irene (Sewell) Hobby, president of the Atlanta Club for 1937-'38, sent in such an interesting report of the two years' work that she and her board of officers completed in June that we give it below for the help it may be to other clubs.

The officers were: president, Irene (Sewell) Hobby; vice presidents, Jo Beth (Apperson) Garrard, Mildred (Vinson) Clanton, Louise (Davis) Davison, Margaret Richards, Harriet (Robeson) Lovett; secretary, Rachel (Moore) Bentley; treasurer, Berta Smith; registrar, Julia Sparks.

The number of meetings held were: three general meetings with an average attendance of 75; 51 group meetings with an average attendance of 12 to 18; two general luncheons with an average attendance of 75. The nature of the meetings is both educational and social. Each of the five groups meets monthly according to its year book with programs and hostesses listed therein.

In making high school contacts, 111 prospective students were contacted by alumnae during the summer. A party was given for the high school seniors who registered for Wesleyan. One of the Wesleyan students was hostess, with one group of alumnae in charge of arrangements. There were 150 present.

The alumnae arranged for Dr. Anderson to speak in seven Atlanta high schools, and accompanied him to these engagements. An alumna spoke in eight schools. Alumnae notified the high schools of Dormitory Day, and the first vice-president, Jo Beth (Apperson) Garrard, planned the transportation for 100 seniors to attend. Her committee accompanied them. Alumnae arranged the competitive examinations and the essay contest, and provided lunch for the contestants.

The club promoted Wesleyan in the community in the following ways:

1. September party for freshmen.
2. Participation in Rich's, Davison's, Allen's, "Back to School" projects in August and September.
3. Mid-year party at Biltmore featuring campaign.
4. Four musical radio programs.
5. Tea for alumnae writers.
6. Numerous radio announcements, radio programs, editorials, college news, and other features regarding campaign not included in above.

7. Southeastern Fair exhibit and provided attendants.
8. Fair poster in Davison's window two days.
9. About 77 newspaper notices and pictures.
10. Tea for Willie Snow Etheridge at Rich's.
11. "Smile of Promise" at Fox, Southeastern Fair, and DeKalb Theatre.
12. G. E. A. Luncheon.
13. One week paid radio advertisement of Wesleyan Days at Davisons.
14. One paid Christmas greeting from club to all (in Journal).
15. Wesleyan was granted space on official envelopes that advertise Georgia.

The money raised in 1939 in addition to contributions to the campaign was $273.76. Of this $150 was used for gift scholarships, and $55 was placed on the Florrie Cook White Fund. (In 1938 $175 was placed in this fund, to be used to help Wesleyan students.)

The registrar spent much time in correcting membership lists, and placed new ones in the hands of group leaders and officers, and in the Alumnae Office.

New officers elected for a two-year term are: president, Louise (Davis) Davison; vice-presidents, Eleanor (Atkinson) Stillwell, Mary Lou (Martin) Davis, Alice Domingos Evans, Lillian (Shearouse) Anderson, Clara (Boynton) Cole; recording secretary, Roline (Trimble) Boyle; corresponding secretary, Eugenia (Pace) Bell; group chairmen, Robert (Graham) Warner, Tommie Lee (Hightower) Stallings, Lillian (Cox) Girardeau, Mildred (Gower) Sims, Mary (McCord) Walshall; scholarship committee, Maybelle (Jones) Dewey, Exa (Brown) Bryant, Margaret (Zattau) Roan; registrar, May Allen King; ways and means committee, Eleanor (McDonald) Elsas, Sue (Tanner) McKenzie.

Columbus

At the Alumnae Council meeting at Rivoli on October 7, 1939, were: president, Woodie (Schley) Campbell, Weeta (Watts) Mathews, Roberta (Ingle) Jolly, Marguerite Johnston.

The Columbus Club has issued its year book and started the year's work with their regular monthly meetings. Weeta (Watts) Mathews gave a review of "The Three Sisters" at the first meeting and renewed the group's recollections of the Soong sisters.

Dublin

Annie (Simmons) Smith, president, attended the Council meeting. The club started its work with a meeting on October 11, sold tickets for the Macon Style Show, and planned a Musicale for October 30.

Macon

The Macon Club's activities for the year were centered in raising as much money as possible for the campaign fund. Linda (Anderson) Lane as president began the enthusiastic program with group meetings held to promote the year's plans, and the annual business meeting was combined with a tea for Macon students at Wesleyan.

The large project for the fall was a beautiful style show at the City Auditorium on October 19, the Wesleyan girls serving as models. With the cooperation of Macon merchants, the club cleared $800. The merchants offered to bear all expenses and to give the club the gross receipts from the ticket sales. Polly (Pierce) Corn, vice-president in charge of money raising activities, was chairman.

Tifton

At the Council meeting in October were: Marian (Padrick) Woodard, Harriet (Evans) Southwell, and Sue (Wilhelm) Ferguson, treasurer, who presented a check for $100 to the campaign fund, proceeds of a series of rummage sales put on by the club.

Class Notes

The Griffin newspaper carried in March the following story about Mollie (Reid) Mills of the class of 1867:

"Saturday Mrs. Mary Reid (Ma) Mills celebrated her ninetieth birthday. Friends of Mrs. Mills who belonged to the original "Mystic Circle", exclusive social organization of years gone by, and relatives gathered to help this fine woman celebrate the occasion.

"Mrs. Mills was born in Macon and lived there during her girlhood. Married to Mr. Charles Gardner Mills, she lived in Savannah a few years and early in the '70's moved to Griffin. Since then she has lived here where she has always been one of the most beloved citizens.

"Ninety years is a long span of life, and few attain this age. But 'Ma' Mills has been such a joy to her friends, down through the years, that they all join in wishing her 'Many Happy Returns of the Day'."

Wesleyan had a delightful visit in the spring from Mrs. Berenice S. Royster of Kansas City, Mo., who brought us news of her sister-in-law, Mary E. Royster of the Wesleyan class of 1868, living now at 226 Newark Avenue, Bloomfield N. J.

Mary Royster is a retired teacher from a New York Public School, and has her own home in Bloomfield. She herself writes: "My time has been filled with preparing for visitors to the World's Fair, or I should have written to tell you how much my sister-in-law enjoyed her visit to my Alma Mater and how glad I was to hear from some of my old college friends. Annie Rose, Annie Nutting, Carrie Wimberly, Mary Adams, Lou Rogers (a relative of Dr. Bonnell) were in my class, also Fannie Perdue (a relative of Dr. Crosby Smith), Mary Wardlaw and Lucy Cook. I often hear Dr. John Bonnell speak over the radio and wonder if he is our president's son. William was his brother and Mary was born while I was at Wesleyan.

"Minnie Bass was quite a little chum of mine. She loved to climb the old chapel steps, snuggle up to me and listen to my stories after school. Please tell her, or anyone that remembers me, that I would be delighted to see them if they come to the Fair.

"My sister-in-law who visited Wesleyan has six children. Perhaps some of her grandchildren will matriculate in dear old Wesleyan." (One of these children, by the way, is Mrs. Frances Royster Williams who draws the cartoon strip, "Cuddles and Tuckie" used by many leading newspapers over the country. They picture the adventures of a little boy and girl who had their inspiration in Mrs. Williams' own son and daughter.)

The Griffin News paid a high compliment to Judge Ogden Persons, son of the late Mary (Barry) Persons, a graduate of this class, when it stated recently: "A group of men were today discussing 'Who'll be Georgia's next governor'. There was a difference of opinion here, as there usually is when politics is discussed. But when the name of Judge Ogden Persons of Forsyth was mentioned there seemed to be a meeting of minds, for all agreed that the Monroe jurist, who was once president of the state senate, would make an excellent chief executive. One of the men paid the judge a sincere compliment when he said, 'Judge Persons would make an honest, able governor, and the politicians would not be able to put anything over on him.' "

Henrietta (Clark) Caper's picture appeared in the Augusta paper in March, with a statement from her about the Wesleyan campaign in which she was intensely interested. She is the oldest Wesleyan alumna in Augusta, and leads a very active life, keeping abreast of the times. She is the mother of Frank Capers, Jr., Anderson Capers and Ruth Capers, all of Augusta.

Ida (Frazer) Turrentine was honored as the Mother of Dade County on the program held in the Bayfront Park, Miami, on the afternoon of Mother's Day, and sponsored by the Ministerial Association, the Recreational Board, and the Daily News. Her church presented her with flowers at the morning service on the same day. To her pastors, "Eighty-five and still an active member", we might add, and "a youthfully spirited one." She writes of the day "I was glad when they told me I did not have to wear black. I wore powder blue, I can't act old neither can I dress like an 'old lady'. I must wear my inside feelings on the outside."

Mary (Patillo) Norman of West Point, Ga., died in July. She was an active worker in religious, civic and cultural activities in the community.

She came of a long line of distinguished religious leaders. She is survived by two sons, Dr. Frank P. Norman, Sr. of Columbus, Ga., and his family; and Lewis E. Norman of West Point and his family; and a daughter, Mrs. W. W. Pate of Lincoln, Nebraska, and her two daughters.

1874

Sallie (Sparks) Vickers now lives in Gadsden, Ala., on S. 12th St. with her daughter Jeannette, Mrs. Frank Turner. Two other daughters who are nurses spent their summer vacations with her. Maryan Smith of the class of '39, visited in the home not long after her graduation, and these two Wesleyan girls enjoyed comparing notes on their college.

Minnie (Bass) Burden writes:

"Kate (Ashburn) Campbell died on February 7, 1939. She had been in ill health for four years, but with wonderful will power, she continued looking well after all life's duties and pleasures—deeply interested in her church, and choir, and woman's club work. Remembering her old days at Wesleyan when she was a loyal Adelphean, she identified herself with the "A. D. Pi" alumnae in San Antonio. She was a remarkable woman, gifted as a musician and with a brilliant intellect. She was indeed a daughter to whom Wesleyan can point as one among her rarest gems. We extend sympathy to her daughter, Mrs. Katherine Rhone, and to her son, Ralph Campbell, both of San Antonio."

Mrs. Campbell's delightful letters to Mrs. Burden gave so much of her devotion to Wesleyan, and the color of her college days that we quote from one written in January:

"Let me thank you for the prized program of the Sophomore Exhibition in which I took a part, for it brings back the happiest day of my life and I still make no exceptions. As you know, students took no part in Commencement exercises (music excepted) until the sophomore year. About two months before commencement, the honor Places, as we called them, were read out in chapel, and when my name was called as a winner of one of the ten places out of a class of fifty-six, I was overjoyed. When asked to mention the very happiest moment of my long life of 79 years, my mind goes back to that afternoon in May of 1873. Happy? I was too happy for words, happier than I have ever been before or since. I can give no reason except that I had worked five long years for this honor, and that I love old Wesleyan so much,—my love for it amounts almost to adoration, or even more, idolatry.

"It is the only school I ever attended. In March of 1869 my mother secured her position there, and I was put in Wesleyan and ground out. (She had taught me before.) It was my home for eight years. I am very proud of Wesleyan as my Alma Mater, and I owe everything that I am or have ever been to this 'Queen of Colleges.'

"Several members of my family preceded me to Wesleyan:

"My aunt Ellen Edwards died there and sleeps in the lovely old Rose Hill Cemetery. Next came my aunt Ann Edwards of the class of 1852, who afterwards married an Edwards. My mother's oldest brother married Emma Josephine Miller of the class of 1866. Next came my Aunt Kate Edwards who attended two years but did not graduate."

Kittie (Jewett) Williams' daughter, Duchess, was married to Guy Taylor of Lorane, July 10.

Alice (Leverette) Hearn, former secretary of the class of 1875, died January 2, 1939. Her husband, W. H. Hearn of Eaton, sent this information to the Alumnae Office.

1876

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. G. Solomon (Lillian Roberts), 610 College St., Macon, Ga.

In Memoriam Clara Patten Watson, A. B.,
By Minnie (Smith) Ziegler, 1913

The death of Clara (Patten) Watson on August 14 at her home in Columbus, Georgia saddened the hearts of all who were privileged to know her. Only two weeks before her passing she had celebrated her eightieth birthday anniversary.

In the hour of loss it is the simplicities and privacies of a life which we remember, not the spectacular things in it, but rather its elemental soundness and goodness. In the passing of Clara Patten Watson our thoughts have taken two parallel directions; how good this rare woman was, just in herself; and how she shone in her various relationships. Her personality was of such sincerity and transparency that it was not hard to analyze. You saw in her a woman of uncommon good judgment, better still, a woman of exceptional kindness; and best of all, a woman whose heart-life, whether in home, society or church, was her uppermost life.

Her earthly work is finished, but the rare spirit in which that work was done, will continue to live.

She has been an honor to her Alma Mater from the day she entered its classic halls, graduating with honors in the class of 1876 at Wesleyan College.

It is a pleasant and treasured memory to recall the unfailing devotion, rare tact and sympathetic understanding which characterized her services to the church and other organizations which held her interest throughout her life. Here her unusual gifts and culture found highest expression, here she showed herself wise in counsel, an executive of exceptional ability.

Mrs. Watson was the oldest member of the Columbus Wesleyan Alumnae Club. Wesleyan College honored her during the Centennial Commencement, by selecting her to represent her class of 1876 in the Historical Pageant, "The Smile of Promise". One of the latest honors to their distinguished member and co-worker, was the Clara Patten Watson scholarship, given in 1938 by the local Wesleyan Club.

She also held Honorary Life Presidency in the Ladies' Memorial Association. No memorial day program in Columbus was complete without the touch of her hand. She worked untiringly in this field of endeavor—paying tribute to those who went out to battle for the cause of the South.

As a member of the Lizzie Rutherford chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, she gave unsparingly of her time and talent for the advancement of the work of these patriotic organizations.

She has gone to do Her Master's service in a happier sphere and with a clearer vision.

Clara (Patten) Watson is enshrined in our hearts, and with her spirit we keep sacred tryst.

*"She followed the gleam, her ideals, until
To the land's last limit she came
And could not linger;
But died rejoicing".*

By the "Magic of Him the Mighty", she followed to the border of the boundless ocean—Eternity; and today a radiance has burst on her soul that is "not of the sunlight, not of the moonlight, not of the starlight—but of the Heavenlight."

* * * * *

"It is very hard to gather news of a class which has been out in the big world for 63 years, when most of the 64 members scattered to the four winds or having finished their pilgrimage, rest from their labors. One of our outstanding members, Clara (Patten) Watson, who has been an ardent Wesleyanne, died in July. I have enjoyed my association with her, and had hoped we could be together more often as the years passed.

"I have been in Atlanta for some weeks, and notice the many groups of Wesleyan alumnae who are entertaining for the girls who are entering college this year. There seems to be a multitude of them. If I could have my way they would all be going there, and the buildings would be overflowing with happy students."

Lillian (Roberts) Solomon, Class Secretary

1877

Alice (Hutchings) Johnston makes her home in Jacksonville with her daughter Mrs. M. J. Blanchard. She says that it would be an honor and a pleasure to attend the Wesleyan meetings there, and regrets that an invalid existence prevents her.

1878

Class Secretary: Mrs. Washington Dessau, Sr., (Fannie Gilmer) 301 Hines Terrace, Macon, Ga.

Verdie (Akin) Erwin of Tacoma, Washington, wrote: "As the mother of seven children, grandmother of twelve, and great grandmother of four, I am duly proud of myself, but especially of the great grands! My five daughters, one son still in this life, and my grandchildren keep me busy trying to keep up with them. My son, David, was 'called up higher' in 1932, because, as a friend wrote me, 'God wants the shining lights.' David distinguished himself in the General Motors Corporation in Brazil, Japan, and New York."

May Bonner of Macon reminisces about the class of '78: "A noted and brilliant class, including Tochie (MacDonell) Williams, Alice Cullen, Emily Willett, Ophelia Lundy, Jessie Lane, Florine Dunlap, and many other fine minds. All these girls achieved eminence. To study and strive was our daily portion."

"Many of us had lunch together, huddled around in convenient nooks, agreeable to college regulations. What delicious eatables Wylenna Lamar always brought, and how exceedingly generously she shared the same! If 'we are what we eat' the Old South will live in greatness forever. All those girls were substantially supplied, and what a glorious crowd! No bickering or envy, just rejoicing and playing up another's successes. Such good work, happy days, and loved memories."

"Florine Dunlap and Gertrude Snyder were foremost in science and other departments. What wit and fun they added to dry themes and hard knocks! I specialized in French and English, taught two regular public school terms, then returned to the college and graduated in music, teaching there a while in the music department and afterward having a music class in the city for nearly twenty years."

"Most of the class are anchored safe in the Father's Home now. 'Flying with feathery prow over the ocean foam, Safe at last, the billows past.' "

Fannie (Gilmer) Dessau is one of the happiest and most active people we know. It was a joy to see her recently when she, with her friend Ida (Crosland) Nottingham came out to bring the classnotes which Fannie had collected in answer to her cards sent out to every member of her class. A short time after that, she had a bad fall in downtown Macon, and was confined to the hospital with a head injury. She kept up her fine spirits, however, declared that she had a fine time playing "invalid", and has made a remarkable recovery.

Six wrought-bronze lanterns of Gothic pattern have been placed in Christ church in Macon as a memorial to Carrie (Johnson)

Duncan by her children Mrs. Rodney Cohen, Jr., George Duncan, and Dr. John Duncan.

Jessie (Lane) Mathis of Americus writes: "Does it seem possible that 61 years have passed since a day in June, 1878 when 36 of our class graduated!"

"I will be 79 next December, and to my surprise I went to the World's Fair in New York in July. What a wonderful time I had! Two of my daughters, Linda and Lula, and a son-in-law went with me, and I succeeded fairly well in keeping up with them. The trip will be a bright spot in my memory the rest of my life."

"I have spent a happy life, though much of its light went out with the death of my husband in 1924 and the loss of a grown son, killed in the World War in 1918. My children have always been a great pleasure to me, but since the loss of two members of our family they have been doubly devoted and solicitous of my happiness."

Annie (Tucker) Muse writes: "I am the only member of our class in Albany, but I am still holding on and loyal to Wesleyan. I am looking after the home and doing some work in Sunday School and missionary society. I have two boys, who are getting along nicely. I also have two granddaughters, one a nurse with the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Atlanta. The other is married and living in Griffin, Ga."

Mary (Nicholson) writes: "One of the loveliest women I met in North Carolina was Theopa (Bobo) Banks of Grantville—a Wesleyan girl 80 years old. Her daughters went to Wesleyan. Mr. William Banks of Newnan who married Evelyn Wright is her son. Usually our girls measure up with the finest."

Viola (Wilbanks) Logan was in the receiving line at Phi Mu tea in Atlanta at the Capital City Country Club as a Philomathean at Wesleyan. The two other Philomatheans with her were Mattie (Small) White, '88, and Claire (Boifeuillet) Jones, '04.

1879

Class Secretary: Mrs. Cuyler King, (Henrietta Nisbet) 1706 Park Dr., Charlotte, N. C.

1880

Class Secretary: Mrs. Alfred Truitt (Ida Price), 987 Columbia Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Frances (Carr) Estes died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eugene Willingham, Sr., in Atlanta, December 1, 1938. Her husband, Dr. Joseph Lawton Estes, died in 1898. She leaves two sons and two daughters, several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Sympathy is extended to Stella (Hunt) King in the death of her husband, Campbell T. King, beloved citizen of Macon, last November. Mrs. King's daughters are: Odille (King) Dasher, '07; Louise (King) Horton, '18; and Hattie Tracy (King) Hartness, '20. Louise's thirteen-year-old son, Thad Horton, Jr., wrote the following lovely tribute to his grandfather after his death, and called it "The Crownless King":

*A solid oak among the pines,
A hill above the plains,
A soul confined to stately lines,
A shelter from the rains.*

*The world was his, he was a king,
Yet crowns he never knew,
His friends were numbered by the stars,
His enemies were few.*

*A life so pure in all its lines,
So truthful and so brave,
A courage strong as casted iron
He carried to the grave.*

*A budded flower among the weeds,
A prince, a king, a lord,
As pure in life, as sweet in death,
He went to his reward.*

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. W. Daves (Annie Hopkins), Cartersville, Ga.

Josephine (Whitehurst) Rozar, in Milledgeville would have made an excellent business woman if she had not given her time instead to teaching and housekeeping and bringing up her three fine children. A recent letter to the Alumnae office is typical of her. She gave several news items of class and college friends, and in every case details of dates and maiden names and addresses were carefully given and without error. She enclosed a list of high school girls who are good prospective Wesleyan students, with the dates of their graduation from high school, girls whose interest in the college she has already begun to stimulate. She had a delightful trip to Boston during the summer.

1882

Class Secretary: Mrs. Mary Anderson (Mary Jones), Talladega, Ala.

1883

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. D. Lamar, Dorothy (Blount), 238 Georgia Ave., Macon, Ga.

Dorothy (Blount) Lamar and Mr. Lamar motored to Oklahoma where as President General of the U. D. C. she presided over the Convention. She has with ability and distinction filled the many official calls upon her during the year, and will have earned the rest that should be hers at the end of her term of office in November.

Sympathy is extended to Matilda (Morton) Snelling in the death of her husband, Charles M. Snelling, Chancellor Emeritus of the University of Georgia, in September. The veteran educator had been ill for some time. The Governor of Georgia said, "Georgia loses a great educator and a sterling citizen in his passing." He was known as a brilliant teacher, an efficient executive, a constructive citizen, a loyal friend, and a staunch Christian. Beside his wife, six sons survive.

Sympathy is extended to Clara (Dunlap) Badgley of Middlesburg, New York, in the death of her husband, Claude Manning Badgley, in January.

1885

Class Secretary: Mrs. T. E. Davenport (Alice Lowery), 1114 Elm St. Americus, Ga. Macon Representative, Mrs. Ed T. Cook (Annie Cargill) 303 Corbin Ave.

Effie (Barden) Burke spent a delightful summer visiting her daughter, Mrs. William Burdette, in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Sympathy is extended to Bella (Harris) Cohen in the death of her mother, Mrs. Eva Harris, aged ninety, in January.

The Wesleyan Alumnae of August gave a full account of the alumnae meeting that took place on May 27. It was a great occasion and one long to be remembered by those present. It was reunion year for the class of '85, and those present took part in the induction of the class of 1930 into the Alumnae Association. It was a beautiful ceremony. The seniors, in caps and gowns, marched in to light their candles at those held by their older sister alumnae. We wished all of our class could have been with us though we had a fair representation. Many of the members of the class sent love and greetings to their classmates, and said they would be thinking of us on that day. They were scattered far and wide, from New York to Miami, and from Savannah to Los Angeles. As far as the secretary could find, there are eighteen of the class living, twenty-three passed on, and three whose addresses are unknown.

Willie (Swoll) Sawyer sent special greetings to the class, and regrets that she could not be with us on this occasion. She lives in Swarthmore, Penn., a beautiful college town, with her second son. Her daughter and four grandchildren live in Bangor, Maine. Her oldest son, Swoll Sawyer, is a member of the South Georgia Conference and stationed at Folkston, Ga. He has two little girls, and I am sure their names will be on the Wesleyan roll in the years to come.

Our sympathy goes out to Janie (Weston) Chapman, class of '85, in the death of her only daughter, Mrs. E. L. Boatright of Savannah, last January. She has two sons, James Davis Chapman, New York City, and Judson William Chapman, Greenville, S. C., and six grandsons. She sent her love to her classmates and Alma Mater.

Alice (Lowrey) Davenport, Class Secretary

Class Secretary: M. Kate Neal, 1364 Emory Road, N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

"Memory is the treasurer and guardian of all things".

—Cicero.

(Editorial note: Again let us say that there could not be anywhere a more loyal class than that of Wesleyan, 1886, or a more efficient class secretary than Kate Neal, who has kept in touch through the years with every one of her classmates whose addresses she could possibly find, and has sent to you, through the magazine, the news of each one. We extend deepest sympathy to her in the sudden deaths of the brother and the sister-in-law with whom she made her home.

A surprise visit to Macon and Wesleyan by Marion (Luse) Chenery and her distinguished husband, Dr. William E. Chenery, retired specialist of Boston, on their return from Florida in February made many friends for both of them. They were interested in the old college where she received her B. M.

degree, and were delighted with the new campus, where they were guests for dinner. They were fortunate in falling into the hands of Edith (Stetson) Coleman who found former classmates, took them to see Minnie (Bass) Burden, and honored them with a luncheon in her home. It was at a tea at the home of Jennie Loyall that Mrs. Chenery presented the handsome check for the campaign fund, in commemoration of which one of the faculty parlors will bear her name.

Laura (Brown) Miller lives in the Robert Fulton hotel, New York. She writes: "I have not been well in over a year, and have not been to see the New York World's Fair. My son, his wife and children have just returned from a summer in Norfolk, Conn. I wish you could see my grandchildren—Ann Davenport Miller (9 years) and Warren Bailey Miller (4 years). I find pleasure in making an album for each. This, I started as soon as they were old enough to be wrapped up. Some day they will look at their pictures and say: 'Grandmother did I ever look like this?'"

Lynn Branham is yesterday, today and forever the same loyal, gracious friend to all who visit her at her ancestral home at Oxford, Ga.

Florence Irene Leonard's address is Manitou Springs, Colorado—Eltekoh Lodge.

Lizzie (Leonard) Hightower has spent a happy summer at The Marlborough, Hendersonville, North Carolina. She says the beautiful environment and health-giving air there makes one feel young.

We are sorry to note our much beloved poet, Emy (Norris) Hall, 305 W. Montgomery St., Milledgeville, Ga., continues ill. A friend writes: "She is the most beloved woman in Milledgeville."

Our good musician, Rosalie (Ridenhour) Brown, Cordele, Ga., joined the Choir Invisible in the month of August 1939.

Stella (Duncan) Cater and Dr. Robert Cater happily celebrated their Golden Wedding in Perry, Georgia, January 23rd. Sympathy is expressed for them in the recent death of their son, Dr. Robert Cater of Greensboro, North Carolina.

Jimmie (Finch) Boone, as delegate to the National D. A. R. Congress at Washington, D. C. April 14th, had a most interesting visit. She lives with her son, Dr. Will Wood, Eustis, Florida—Dr. Wood has charge of the X-ray Department in the new Hospital near Plant City, Fla.

Lillian Bremer has experienced a painful accident, having her arm broken near the shoulder. Knowing how Lillian uses that good right hand in her lovely art work, we are hoping for her speedy recovery. After spending the summer in Mississippi, she is now at home with her cousin, Mrs. W. S. Calhoun, 204 N. Candler St., Decatur, Ga.

Annie Belle (Cox) Lanier stays at home closely on account of the ill health of her husband, E. C. Lanier, Harlem, Ga. Their son, Wilmer D. Lanier, has practiced law in Augusta, Ga., for 18 years, and has been a member of the General Assembly of Georgia for 8 years. Their son, Howard Lanier, lives in Augusta and is representative for a State Fire Company. Their daughter, Mrs. J. A. Fussell (Wesleyan Alumna) Newbrockton, Alabama, has a daughter 11 years old who frequently says, "I am a future Wesleyan girl".

During the past year, sorrow has come to Mary (Holtzclaw) Robeson in her lovely home "Echota"—Marietta, Ga. Since the death of her husband, Mr. L. B. Robeson, and her brother, Mr. John Holtzclaw ("Bud John"), Mamie has had to rest in bed many weeks. The doctor says she is to stay abed some weeks yet, but she is regaining health.

Ada (Murphey) Pound says her nickname at Wesleyan was "Grandma". She has come into this name rightly now, for she has six lovely grand-daughters and six fine grandsons. Her son Merritt B. Pound, Associate Professor of History at the University of Georgia, has been awarded a Ph.D. degree by the University of North Carolina for research work on the life of Benjamin Hawkins—a United States Government agent to Indians in Georgia, appointed to this post by President Washington in 1795.

Minnie (Wilcox) Anderson, East Fall Church, Va., "Idylwood"—R. F. D. No. 1, has not been able to walk since she broke her leg by a fall in the snow last winter. Louise Weed Campbell, 2400—16th St., N. W., Washington, goes out by bus to see her, and says she is interesting and cheerful despite the handicap.

Chloe (Smith) Hutchinson and Mr. T. A. Hutchinson, Monticello, Ga., are proud to tell they have a great-granddaughter in Ashland, Alabama. They have several grandchildren, an outstanding granddaughter graduates at Moultrie High School in June 1940 and is a Wesleyan prospect.

Lizzie (Wiley) Davids lives by St. Andrews Bay—one of the beauty spots of Florida, and it is said by some to rival the famous Bay of Naples. Lizzie's hair is not gray, but darker than in youth. She has fine health and excellent spirits, and is glad to know her Alma Mater is going forward.

Annie (Hyer) Coleman renews her youth when she takes her granddaughter Anne Hyer Smith, back to Wesleyan. Anne Smith says: "Wesleyan is 'swell' and she could not want to be elsewhere".

Bobbie (Graham) Warner has acted as Chairman of Group No. 1 in the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae for many years. At annual meetings she calls for the election of a new Chairman, when the members of this Group say: "Pass that on. You know we have elected you for life". Mrs. Edward G. Warner expresses appreciation that Group No. 1 responds so generously to help meet Wesleyan's financial crisis.

Minnie Fay Rice had the wanderlust this spring. With friends, she motored through the Shenandoah Valley, and to Washington in time to see the famous cherry blossoms. The New York Fair gave them many interesting days.

Blanche (Hall) Neel and Mr. Joseph Neel spend much of their time at Indian Springs, but the old friends visiting Macon always find gracious hospitality and welcome at their lovely home—624 College Street.

Mattie (O'Daniel) Smith has had the old homestead renovated where she lived as a girl. With her son, his wife and grandson, she lives at Dry branch, Ga.—R.F.D. No. 2. She says she can go by bus to any Wesleyan meeting in Macon.

Annie May (Mallery) Andrews is ever busy with service for her Episcopal Church. Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Andrews are alone in their home, 120 Lamar Street, Macon. One son lives in Berkshire Hills, Mass., one son lives in Tampa, Florida, and a new grandson came to gladden their lives in November.

Our good Teacher—Emma O. Smith, never seems to get enough knowledge. She has taught in the Macon schools over fifty years, yet she spent the summer going to College in Berkley, California.

Anne (Allen) Johnston came to Atlanta from her Florida home just in time to join Annie (Hyer) Coleman, Bobbie (Graham) Warner and Kate Neal in a motor trip to Macon for Alumnae Day—May 27th. Blanche (Hall) Neel, Mattie (O'Daniel) Smith, Emma O. Smith, and Minnie Fay Rice met us at Rivoli, and after the meeting we lunched together in the College Dining Room. Drinking tea from a lovely Wedgewood cup, on which was pictured the Old Wesleyan Towers, we had a toast for future Greater Wesleyan.

In the month of May, Kate Neal's brother and sister, with whom she lived, with farewells unspoken gently entered Home.

M. Kate Neal, Class Secretary

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. A. Douglass (Jennie Martin), Lake Mary, Fla.

Annie (Anderson) McKay and her granddaughter, Anne Holmes, a student at Wesleyan, attended the national D. A. R. congress in Washington, D. C. in April. Annie is regent of the Mary Hammond Washington Chapter of the Organization in Macon.

Jennie (Martin) Douglass sent us in January a newspaper clipping announcing the death of Virginia (Turnbull) Sloan of Tallahassee, Fla. "I have kept in close touch with 'Jennie Turnbull', as we lovingly remember her," she writes, "she had a wonderful personality, splendid character, and unusual mental training. She was for 16 years director of residence halls at the Florida State College for Women. She leaves a son, Theo T. Sloan, a daughter, Mrs. Will Maige of Monticello, and three brothers."

Sympathy is extended to Pauline (Spain) Thompson in the death of her husband, Waddy Thompson, author of textbooks on American history, in March.

Emma (Turnbull) Carroll writes from Oxford, Ga.: "I am in a maze of packing and having company at the same time, so this card will probably be so confused you will consign it to the waste-basket, as editors used to when I was young over fifty years ago. I am leaving for Montclair, N. J. in a few days where we are to have a family reunion. One daughter lives there and the other in Los Angeles, all of the family I have, but I have two wonderful grandsons, one twelve and the other six, both of unusual brilliance, or so we think.

(My husband is coming in and out as I write, reading verses he is composing to send to a fellow superannuate, and they are really clever, but I must confess, not at all dignified or suitable to the cloth!)

"I had a talk with Lynn Branham over the phone today. She grows younger instead of older. Also see Mary Nell (Wiley) Strozier A. B., '28, as she and her husband and pretty daughter ride by our superannuate home several times a day.

"Georgia (Ficklen) Shankle, recently left a widow, was at Wesleyan with me, and lives in a home adjoining ours. Her daughter, Julia, and young grandson of New Orleans, her son's child, are now living with her. Only a fence and flower garden divide us.

"The father of Mary (Paine) Allen, '19, and Elizabeth Paine, '22, once a professor at Emory, died recently, and all Oxford was saddened."

Class Secretaries: Mrs. W. T. Stone (Ida Lowrey) Blakely, Ga.

Annie (Bates) Haden and Mr. Haden recently enjoyed a delightful trip to New England. Many friends are pleased that her health is sufficiently restored for this annual celebration after the many long weeks that she spent in the hands of doctors and nurses, during the spring. She writes this fall "I know that Wesleyan is starting out with renewed courage. Several new girls phoned me how much better they are anticipating going and are anxious to have themselves known as 'Wesleyan girls'. They pleased me greatly by saying that in the years to come whenever their names are mentioned, they want this said of them".

Lou Will (Culver) Kidd of Milledgeville, died August 20, in a Milledgeville hospital after several days' illness. She was prominent in civic, social and religious life of Baldwin County, where she lived for the past 50 years. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Harold S. Day of Bartow, Fla., two sons, C. Culver Kidd and John W. Kidd, both of Milledgeville, and two grandsons, Culver Kidd, Jr., and James Kidd.

Mamie (Haygood) Ardis' daughter, Dorothy had a delightful trip around the world in 1938-'39, and wrote a series of articles for the Downey, California, Champion describing the interesting things she saw.

Sallie (Lowrey) Wolfe's son, John Jacob Wolfe, was married in June to Eunice Kneese of Greensboro, S. C. He is a member of the Bailey, N. C. high school faculty, is a graduate of Clemson College, and did graduate work at the state university in Raleigh, N. C.

Mamie (Symmes) Rainey, widow of E. L. Rainey, editor of the Dawson News, died October 11, in Dawson. Surviving are a daughter, a son, a sister, one granddaughter and one grandson.

Lutie Westcott has returned from Tampa, Fla., and is living now in her old home place in Macon, 341 Calhoun Street. She is a member of Group 1 of the Macon Alumnae.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Geo. Watson (Annie Lou Laney), 319 Duncan Ave., Macon, Ga. Macon Representative, Lella Clark, 76 Arlington Place.

Julia (Jones) Higgison died at her home in Macon during the summer. She leaves, besides her husband, J. J. Higgison, two daughters, Julia and Rebecca, and five sons, Peyton, Joseph, Jr., Gibson, Derry, and Chester.

Annie Lou (Laney) Watson has returned to her home in Macon after spending a year with her daughter in Denver, Colorado. Her friends will be distressed to hear that she suffered a stroke of paralysis within recent months, and is confined to her bed.

Anita (McClendon) Miller of 4830 Sheffield Ave., Mt. Lookout, Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:

"I have just received notice that four of my poems have been selected for the Texas Section of the North American Book of Verse. I was very much pleased with the selections the editors made, particularly that they included my STRANGE BEAUTY, which was published in BIRD-LORE, the official organ of the National Association of Audubon Societies. Another that they selected was one that has just won a prize in California after having been published in Westward, a California poetry magazine."

Anita is a member of the National Audubon Society, and is considered an authority on bird lore, speaking often before ornithological and literary groups. She has had many of her poems published in magazines and poetry journals. In the spring she wrote to Wesleyan rejoicing in the decision to re-purchase the college buildings, notice of which she read in the magazine "This Week".

Ada (McElhannon) Holder's husband was honored by a "John Holder Day" celebration held by the Gainesville District League of Stewards of the Methodist Church. Mr. Holder has been a steward of the Jeffersonville church for 45 years. He is editor of the Jefferson Herald, and his wife assists him in his work. Their alumnae daughters are Kathleen (Holder) Griffin, '15; and Frances (Holder) Aderholt, '23.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. P. Coleman (Ida Mangham), Massee Apts., Macon, Ga.

Sally May Akin, head of the Washington Memorial Library in Macon, is president of the Georgia Library Association. The Washington library has recently extended its service by providing a Bookmobile which will carry books to rural residents of the county and to inmates of the state prison farm.

Lila May Chapman has sent to the Wesleyan library in the name of Phi Mu, bound files of the Aglaia 1925-26, 1929-30, and 1937-38, a valuable addition to the Wesleyan and Georgia material in the library.

Lizzie (Dickson) Bennett lives in Jefferson, Ga., where she is interested in church and club activities, and does a great deal of writing. Her husband, Dr. J. H. Bennett, died in 1934.

Mamie (Fagin) Harmon and her husband Rev. J. A. Harmon, retired minister in Macon, spent the summer at their home at Lake Junaluska, and in October she visited her daughter Mamie in New York.

Ida (Mangham) Coleman has had many delightful trips to Puerto Rico while her cousin, Blanton Winship, has served as Governor of the Island. With Governor Winship's niece, Katherine Winship, she has welcomed many guests to parties in La Fortaleza, the Governor's Palace, and has seen the terrace along the sea like a fairyland with vari-colored lights and the rich flowers of the tropics. This past year was the most enjoyable of all, for Katherine's wedding to a naval officer was a brilliant affair at the Palace, an occasion never to be forgotten.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Walter Grace, Sr. (Ruby Jones), 631 Forsyth St., Macon, Ga.

In September, Minnie and Julia Goodall went to Cedartown to see their niece Mrs. W. G. Collins and her daughter, recently returned from Beyruth, Lebanon. They are the wife and daughter of W. G. Collins, son of Rosa (Goodall) Collins, '75. He represents the Chrysler Corporation in Beyruth, and sent his family back to the States because of European conditions.

Ruth Grace, granddaughter of Ruby (Jones), Grace, returned to America from France in September because of the outbreak of war in Europe. Ruth had been in France with a group of American students on exchange scholarships, and was to have studied a year in Paris.

Mary Culler White returned to the United States in July from China, where she has served for 38 years as a missionary. She had been stationed at Kuchen, Chekiang province town, for four years when the present Sino-Japanese "incident" broke out. She stuck it out as long as possible since she was not affected by Secretary of State Cordell Hull's order demanding evacuation of married women and children. Later, marooned with hundreds of Chinese refugees on a mountain resort further inland, she remained out of touch with the world for stretches as long as five months. Dr. Fred Manget, also a Georgia missionary, the father of Elizabeth (Manget) Minter, '32, and of Jeanne (Manget) Carroll, '33, was one of the few people able to reach the mountain-bound refugees. After leaving the mountain, Mary Culler White continued in refugee work, riding for days on snail-paced canal boats hauling sacks of cracked wheat which the American Red Cross had donated.

Mary (Nicholson) Ainsworth and Bishop Ainsworth spent the summer at Lake Junaluska. Bishop Ainsworth's health is restored sufficiently for him to resume some of his activities. In October they went to Savannah where the Bishop delivered an address at Wesleyan Monumental Church at the unveiling of a memorial tablet to the late Judge Samuel B. Adams, former trustee of Wesleyan, husband of Annie (Wynn) Adams, and father of Laleah (Adams) Sullivan, Minnie (Adams) Dorsey, and Deborah (Adams) Douglas.

Carrie (Waterman) Parsons writes "I have four children and four grandchildren,—all hale, hearty, and normal, than which nothing could be more desirable. Incidentally, my granddaughter, Margaret Parsons (in the second year, Atlanta High School) longs to be a Wesleyanne. My granddaughter, Caroline Waterman Lester, (daughter of Caroline Parsons Lester, '31), in the first grade in Montezuma so far has expressed no preference."

Ada G. Woods writes: "My time has been full since I left Wesleyan with work and study and travel, all of which has given me much happiness. I spent three years in New York studying at Columbia where I took my higher degrees and later, at intervals, post-graduate work. My teaching experience has been delightful as head of the English Department of the Tubman High School until my resignation a few years ago."

Class Secretary: Mary Bond Smith, 501 Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

A most interesting Historic Sketch of the beginning of Christ Church in Macon, written by Mary Baber-Blackshear, sister of Birdie Baber-Blackshear, was printed recently in Macon. It was Dr. Ambrose Baber, grandfather of the Blackshear sisters, who was instrumental in founding the church in 1825, the first organization for public worship in Macon. It was he, also, who supplied the first Eucharistic vessels and baptismal bowl used in the church, one of these being an exquisite silver cup given to Dr. Baber by Henry St. George Tucker, his friend, who carried him wounded from the battlefield at Bladensburg in the War of 1812. The unique history of this and other silver pieces belonging to the family and their final placement in a memorial crypt in the church on March 8, 1936 by the sisters—all are charmingly told in an informal way by "Miss Mary", as she is affectionately known in Macon. She writes poetry as well as prose, and The Diocesan Record, a church publication, carried this poem of hers last fall:

THROUGH FAITH

*I thank you for the harvest, Lord,
You've blest me with this year;
For sheaves of loved ones bound and tied
With three-fold cords of cheer;
For food, my home, good raiment, work,
My friends both new and old;
For means to help poor souls in want,*

O, bounties manifold.

I thank you for the harvest, Lord—

A yield through faith again—

And, please, Lord, make me always glad

To share my store. Amen.

"Miss Mary" has been ill at her home on Walnut Street for many months now, but she continues cheerful and happy.

Frances (Freeman) Taylor has written and had published a number of poems and articles, the last being "Reminiscences of My Father's Boyhood Friendship with Sidney Lanier" which appeared in a recent edition of the Griffin, Georgia News, and two poems in the Sidney Lanier Memorial Anthology by Dr. Wightman F. Melton of Atlanta.

Maude Hill's business card announces: "Family portraits enlarged and artistically copied in oil, from old pictures, photographs, or daguerrotypes. Also Old Masters copied, and oil paintings skilfully repaired.

"Academic and college training under Misses Mollie Mason and Rosetta Rivers, Macon, Georgia. Later studied Portrait Painting, Art Students League, New York City, under Ivan Olinsky and Homer Boss. Also pupil of Gustave Goetsch, instructor in Portrait Painting, School of Fine Arts, St. Louis, Mo."

Alumnae who were in North Carolina this summer enjoyed seeing Pauline (Pugh) Arnold, who has a lovely home at Black Mountain, and was a charming hostess at the Baptist Assembly.

Hermione (Ross) Walker's son, Benjamin Pressley Walker, Jr., was married in April to Miss Julia Vance of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. O. Jones (Loula Evans), Newnan, Ga. Macon Representative: Mrs. W. D. Anderson (Linda McKinney), 945 Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Mary (Rix) Lawrence had a family reunion and dinner at their home in Baxley for her husband Judge H. J. Lawrence on his 67th birthday in March. Judge Lawrence is the historian of Appling County, Sunday School superintendent, Democratic committeeman, and former public school superintendent.

I had a letter from Mary Gramling. She is still teaching in the public schools of Tampa, Fla.

May (Kennedy) Hall had a delightful trip in the spring to California to visit her daughter Louise Hall Trotti and her son-in-law, Lamar Trotti, scenario writer for some of Hollywood's most successful productions. Macon friends are pleased that the Trottis have bought the old Bowen house and hill not far from Rivoli, and plan to spend part of their time in Georgia. They have recently completed an attractive home in Beverly Hills. May's son, Midshipman Campbell Hall, spent his September leave with her and Mr. Hall and returned to Annapolis where he is a first classman.

Linda (McKinney) Anderson and her husband had a delightful cruise through the Baltic this summer on the Swedish-American liner, Grispholm.

We extend sympathy to Ruth (Mitchell) Winter in the loss of her elder son, Thomas. He was ill for nine months from serious injuries sustained in a plane crash. I went to see her when in Florida last winter but we did not have nearly enough time to say all we wanted to. Her address is: Mrs. C. W. Winter, Sr., 1462 N. W. 17th St., Miami, Fla.

I received a letter from Mattie (Moorehouse) Bowen. She was deeply concerned over the Wesleyan campaign and was anxious that the class of '93 should do their bit. Her address is 1622 Jonquil Terrace, Chicago, Ill.

Lenna (Stevens) Manley spent the month of July at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Theo Tinsley went to Hartford, Conn. in August to spend two weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Henry E. Rees, who celebrated her 85th birthday at that time. She was accompanied home by Augusta Worsham of Macon who had been visiting Nona (Shaw) Moore, Ex '14, at her home in Fairfield, Conn.

Loula (Evans) Jones, Secretary

Class Secretary: Mrs. Lucy K. Johnson (Lucy Keen), 59 Boulevard, Gainesville, Ga.

Nina (Fish) McClesky is now living in Des Moines, Iowa, with her daughter Mary, whose husband, Colonel D. G. Richart has been transferred there from the Philippines. Last winter, Nina spent with her daughter Nina and her husband, Major Charles H. Gerhardt, and their two children at the Presidio of Monterey, California.

Lula (Johnson) Comer of the Conservatory faculty had a delightful vacation trip to Des Moines to visit her cousin Nina McClesky. En route home she spent a day and night with Miss Whitman in Wilmore, Ky. In June her son Jo Comer and his wife from Bakersfield, Calif., visited her and the other son Johnson, who lives in Macon too, and his wife and two attractive children.

Clara (Mumford) Harwell, graduate of the class of '94, died at the home of her daughter, Clara Harwell Winslett in Macon, August 14, 1938. She is survived by a son also, John R. Harwell, a grandson, Usher T. Winslett, Jr., and three sisters and one brother.

Estelle Tennille died at her home in Macon on August 8 after a long illness. She taught for many years at the old Nisbet school, and later at Gresham school in Macon, resigning in 1937 because of ill health. She is survived by one brother, Paullin Tennille, and two nieces, Estelle Carnes, and Katharine P. Carnes, A. B., '13, librarian of Wesleyan College.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Harry Ainsworth (Marion Hayes), Thomasville, Ga.

Macon Representative: Mrs. Mary Hitch Peabody (Mary Hitch) Hines Terrace, Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Nell Pringle in the death last December of her only sister, Annie, (Mrs. J. R. Beckham), "member of one of Thomasville's most distinguished families".

1896

Macon Representative, Lois Rogers, Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Florence (Candler) Sledd in the death of her husband, Dr. Andrew W. Sledd, author, educator, and former president of two universities, in March.

He was Professor of Greek and New Testament Literature at Emory University and was busy at his work at his typewriter less than an hour before his sudden death. Four sons and three daughters survive.

In October, Ailene (Pitts) Corry was re-elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Carnegie Library of Barnesville for the fourteenth year. And this is only one of her many activities in her home town.

Class Secretary: Mrs. S. T. Coleman (Edith Stetson) 317 College St., Macon, Ga.

Vera (Clinton) McBirney's daughter Dorothy ordered some of the Wesleyan china for her mother's Christmas present. Dorothy wrote: "Mother's face just beamed. She said she had not even dreamed of having all this lovely Wesleyan china, and was so very pleased."

Sally Akin writes in her column about the library work in Macon: "Genie Ellis looks after the deposit station of the Atlantic Mill, and does a really marvelous work there. She had a vacation reading club last summer, and is conducting a reading club for the grown-ups during the winter."

Corinne (Lawton) Jordan's son, Robert, was married in the early summer to Lois Steen of Florence, Miss. Robert is a graduate of the University of Chicago, in 1931 became connected with the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, and is now Southeastern Manager for Nation's Business, with headquarters in Atlanta. Corinne's children call her the "debutante", she has such a happy time visiting her family and friends. She maintains an apartment in Macon so that she can receive return visits, but she can close it and leave it at any time. In September she was with her grandsons Albert and Jordan Henry in Atlanta while their parents motored to Miami. Later she visited her brother Walter and his wife Lucile (Ray) Lawton, '12, in Washington.

Sympathy is extended to Mary (Mabbett) Bowman of Perry, Fla., in the death of her brother Henry last December; also to the other two sisters, Hazel (Mabbett) Matthews, '01, of Quitman, and Rebecca (Mabbett) Neel, '09, of Thomasville.

Emmett Peyton Bonner, son of Bessie (Napier) Bonner of Macon, graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, and spent the month of June with his mother before joining the fleet on the West coast.

Sympathy is extended to Annie (Sanford) Allen in the death of her husband, Kelly P. Allen of Macon, last December. He was for many years a leader in the furniture business and was one of the most beloved men in Macon.

"Many individuals and organizations are benefitting by the restored health of Edith (Stetson) Coleman and her renewed support and help," writes one of her friends. "For her warm heart and splendid mind give her many absorbing interests. Among them her devotion to Wesleyan is so staunch that many of the good things that come to the college are due to it. In October she was chairman of arrangements for the state meeting of the Association of Georgia Artists; she and Mr. Coleman extended the hospitality of their home for a seated luncheon which was followed later by a tea at Rivoli for an exhibit of the college's Collection of Contemporary Art for which Wesleyan is indebted to Helena Campbell in New York and to Edith Coleman in Macon."

The Georgia Historical Quarterly for June carried an article by her about Alexander Smith Atkinson, 1815-1894, of Camden County, attorney, legislator, and Confederate soldier.

Edith has a large Sunday School class of young business women at Mulberry, and was one of the study leaders for the church's fall week of prayer.

She secured for the Wesleyan library an autographed copy of "Fannie Kemble" from the author Margaret Armstrong. The book has been added to the Georgia Room of the library.

During the summer she had a cottage at St. Simon Island where she and her granddaughters had a delightful time. Later she went to Lake Junaluska for some lectures there. She and her son Samuel took his daughter Beppy to the Fair in New York, and to see her son Stetson, now a member of the firm of brokers, William Cavalier and Co., and this year elected to the board of governors to the N. Y. Curb Exchange.

Wesleyan folks in Macon will always miss her chauffeur "Fred", who died in August and whom she had had since he was left an orphan at the age of eight. Fred was a friend of the college helping it in its undertakings, and was her right hand in all the quiet charities that she makes her daily portion.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. G. Stephens (Lucy Evans), Washington, Ga.

Martha (Adams) Bigham of Montgomery has been visiting her son and daughter in Atlanta, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sanford, on Pace's Ferry Road.

"Some Historic Spots of the Confederacy

Period in Macon," was compiled and written by Mary (Callaway) Jones of the Sidney Lanier Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and dedicated to Mrs. Walter D. Lamar, the booklet insures anyone who will follow its beckon many days of delightful and profitable adventure among Macon's memorable landmarks of the era of the Confederacy.

Lucy (Evans) Stephens and Dr. Stephens have had a busy summer at their home in Washington, Ga., with "much coming and going" all their friends and family enjoying their hospitality and their new home. Ida, their daughter now at Wesleyan had a house-party, and in August all the children were home at one time. The son Robert and his wife on vacation from the University of Georgia went to New York and Philadelphia and brought Sarah Lee (Evans) Lippincott, '10, back for a visit with the Stephens.

Pearle (Swift) Hallyburton and her husband have moved from Atlanta to Elberton, Georgia, Pearle's old home.

Isoline (Wimberly) Robbins' son, Frederick Smith Robbins of Athens, was married September 27, to Miss Marie Virginia Hodgson of Athens. Isoline lives in Selma, Ala., and during the summer visited her sister, Mrs. Mark Cooper Pope in Atlanta.

Class Secretary: Lucy Gleaton, Conyers, Ga.

1900

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. E. Hays (Louese Frederick), Rhodes Memorial Hall, Atlanta, Ga.

Recently given to the Wesleyan historical collection by Louese (Frederick) Hays of the class of 1900, is a photostatic copy of a letter written on June 15, 1846 by Dr. Benjamin F. Keene of Hillsboro, Ga., to his daughter, Lucinda, at the "Female College, Macon, Ga." Dr. Keene was Louese Hays' grandfather.

The letter, only one page long, gives a delightful picture of the times. The doctor hopes that his daughter is comfortably situated and that the money will be sufficient. He tells her she "need not put on mourning for her Aunt Lucinda, at least until her return home". He admonishes her to make good use of her time and opportunities, for "it would be worse than madness to allow your mind to be turned from the great advantages you now enjoy."

The mid-summer Commencements that used to be held at Wesleyan, the public examinations before a board of questioners, are recalled in one paragraph of his letter: "I am now busily employed like yourself in preparing for an examination, having been appointed to deliver an oration in Monticello on the fourth of July. If I can, it is my intention to come down to the examination. If I do come, where shall I find my Lucinda, in the front or rear rank? I don't mean in dress or finery; these are but small matters, but in Mind and Manners?"

Jonnie (Holmes) Sparks had a delightful trip to Chicago recently to visit her daughter Hazel (Sparks) Highsmith, Conservatory, Hazel's husband, Parker Highsmith represents the Bibb Manufacturing Co. there.

Lucia (Johnson) Edmondson wrote last winter from her home in Sunny Slopes, Anniston, Alabama: "Ida Belle (Price) Callahan, has been in my home several times. She went up to a luncheon which Mozelle (Harris) Jackson gave and I was very sorry not to be able to meet with the group of old and young Wesleyan girls. Ida Belle and her mother are going to Europe in the summer.

The class of 1901 will be grieved to learn of the death on October 17, of Helen (Land) Crittenden, secretary of the class, and one of the most devoted of Wesleyan's alumnae. The news comes from her daughter, Marianna, of the class of '33, who sends a contribution to the Wesleyan campaign in memory of her mother. Two other daughters, Evalyn (Crittenden) Newlands of New York, and Sara (Crittenden) Huie of Birmingham, are also alumnae of the college.

Mary Belle (Adams) Davis' only daughter, Dorothy, was married in June to Dr. Frank Millard Houser of Tifton, Ga.

Viola (Ross) Napier's son, John Blackmon Napier, was married on October 14 to Mary Leverett of Macon. John, a graduate of Tech, is a ceramic engineer at the Cherokee Brick Co. in Macon. Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Emma (Methvin) Blackmon, '99, and her daughter Dorothy (Blackmon) Kersh, '28, of Augusta.

May Allen King is the new registrar of the Wesleyan Alumnae Club of Atlanta.

Martha (Nelson) Christian has been for many years house mother of one of the dormitories at Georgia State College for Women, in Milledgeville. She has one daughter, Janet Christian Prince, who lives in Washington, D. C., and one little granddaughter, Martha.

Dorothy (Rogers) Tilly was a delegate to the United Conference of the Methodist Church held in Kansas City in April.

Class Secretary: Mrs. F. M. Mullino (Mary Addie (Murphy) Montezuma, Ga.

In August the Alumnae Office received a letter from Moka Garden, Soochow, Ky, China, from Nettie Peacock, from whom we had not heard for a long time. She wrote:

"It is certainly high time I was giving you my present address. The one you have is long out of date which is my fault for not letting you know where I am. When I came back from my last furlough, I went to live at Nansiang about twenty miles from Shanghai. When the war started in 1937, that place was the center of the fighting during the months that the Chinese held out in Shanghai. The town was practically destroyed and my little house was burned with everything that I possessed except the things that I had taken away with me for the summer.

"For a little more than a year after the war started, I was in Shanghai and worked in the refugee camps. It was a difficult piece of work because the condition of the people tore at one's heart so much. It was not that they complained, I was constantly amazed at the cheerfulness with which they accepted their lot. In some cases, one of the family had been killed by a bomb right by their side in fleeing, in other cases, husbands and wives had been separated or children had been lost in the crowds. The camps were crowded to their utmost capacity. No family had more than a space on the floor about six feet wide, there they were day and night on a piece of matting, the whole family day in and day out for months with the next group right at them on another piece of matting. If they had rescued any of their clothing, this was tied into a bundle and hung on a nail on the wall. One day, I stopped beside a woman who was sitting with her sick child who was about seven years old. She told me that seven of them had come to the camp but that all the others had died, her husband, mother and father and two children. Now, this last child was ill and she was so worried about him. I urged her to report the illness to the camp doctor and let them take the little boy to the hospital if necessary. Of course I told her about the dear Lord and how He could comfort her heart. The next time I went there, she had gone and some of the others said that she had taken the child to the hospital. This was just one of the many distressing things we found.

"In January, Miss Knobles and I came to Soochow. We are trying to serve those who are here. Being in occupied territory, we are not able to open a regular school but we do have classes for junior middle school girls. We also have a club for the former graduates of the school. We have a group of forty undernourished children who come for half a day. We teach them and also give them one meal. These children are not just the ordinary street children but they are from families who have lost their jobs or their property during this terrible war. I wish you could see their shining faces as they arrive each morning. This work was made possible by contributions from a special fund provided for such children. We have a Bible class for them, or rather, they are taught Bible stories from pictures then they tell these stories back to the class as they learn them. They just love to do this.

"What the women are doing for Wesleyan seems wonderful. I am so glad that we can still think of Wesleyan as belonging to us.

"With every good wish for you and all interested in Wesleyan and at work for her I am,

"Most sincerely,

"Nettie L. Peacock".

A beautiful June wedding in Montezuma was that of Mary Addie (Murph) Mullino's daughter, Mary, and Dr. Robert Spencer Howell of Miami, Florida.

1903

Class Secretary: Lucy Lester, 640 W. Coll St., Tallahassee, Fla.

"Adventuring in Art", is Appleton's recent publication by Kathryn (Dean) Lee, A. B., '03, who has been in the high school of the University of Chicago for the past twelve years. Her publication is for high schools, and for those taking their first interest in art.

Mozelle (Harris) Jackson's son, Hogan Jackson Jr., was married in October to Ruth Shepherd of Clanton, Ala. Mr. Jackson is a graduate of the University of Alabama, and is now connected with the Union Dry Goods Company in Macon, Ga.

Class Secretary: Mrs. T. L. Ross (Helen Roberts) 629 Orange St., Macon, Ga.

Eleanor (Dallis) Stallings, whose daughter, Mary, is in the Junior Class at Wesleyan writes: "As a former student of Wesleyan I love and appreciate my Alma Mater. As the mother of a present student I need Wesleyan, and I pray that Wesleyan may live on—and — on."

1905

Class Secretary: Margie Burks, 640 W. Coll St., Tallahassee, Fla.

Sara (Flowers) Jennings of Thomasville was one of the artists exhibiting to receive honorable mention at the annual meeting of the Association of Georgia Artists in Macon in October.

Eloise (Guyton) Clark leads a busy life as President of the City Federation of Women's Clubs of Augusta, Zone Leader of the Methodist Church Auxiliaries of the Augusta District, Vice-Regent of the D. A. R., and Superintendent of one of the departments in the Sunday School. She is the wife of a prominent Augusta doctor and the mother of a young lady daughter.

Sympathy is extended to Mary (Johnstone) Kagin of St. Paul, Minn. in the death of her mother.

Sympathy is extended to Edwina (Mallette) Pringle of Thomasville and to her daughter, Edwina, of the class of '36, in the death of Mr. Pringle during the past summer.

Oppie (Smith) Guerry and Judge Guerry's daughter, Clara Martin, was married in June to Wayne Belding Denny and now lives in New York City. Clara Martin is an accomplished musician, and was a member of the music faculty of F. S. C. W. Oppie still keeps her interest in her music and is now president of Georgia Association.

Hope Wilder had an auto trip to the Pacific coast in June, and the latter part of August visited Georgia, and saw for the first time "new Wesleyan." She and her family have planned a memorial room for her aunt, Mrs. Emily (Allen) Siler, former teacher.

She writes: "I hope funds are in prospect and that our dear old college will soon be the thriving institution she should be."

Class Secretary: Mrs. T. J. Stewart (Octavia Burden), Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Annabel Horn spent some time this summer in Montreal, Canada, working at McGill University with a committee on the Correlation of Ancient and Modern Languages. Later she went to Chicago where she corrected proof on her newest Latin book, which broke text-book records by being completely sold out before it was off the press. She inspired those attending the Council Meeting in October by saying more enthusiastically than ever that the more she travels and sees and learns of other institutions, the more convinced she becomes that Wesleyan is the ideal college for the needs of today.

Sympathy is extended to Julia (Johnstone) Oliver of Cairo in the loss of her husband, D. F. Oliver, of her stepdaughter, Ruth (Oliver) Bell, A. B. '24, and of her mother, all of whom died within the past year.

The engagement of Ruth (Parker) Burns' attractive daughter, Onie Ruth, to William Thomas Wasden of Millen was announced in September. Mr. Wasden is associated with his brother, Wiley A. Wasden in the Millen Lumber Company.

Jennie (Riley) Crump's son, Joe, is a senior at Harvard. Her daughter, Helen, Macon high school senior, is captain of the crack squad, and sponsor of the football team for the boys' high school. Her husband, J. D. Crump, is a member of the firm McKesson and Riley, wholesale druggists, and is a leading rosarian, by hobby.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Nelson Mallary (Willie Erminger), 117 Callaway St., Macon, Ga.

I saw Sara Branham in New York this summer where she was attending the third convention of the International Micro-Biological Society. She had made a speech and she had also received another honor by being appointed on a committee to study "Prevention of Respiratory Diseases in Case of War", all of which seems so incongruous when you see her. She is so young-looking I was afraid someone was going to say something to me about "you and your daughter". Besides looking so young, she is so modest that it makes a most delightful combination and I thoroughly enjoyed being with her for the hour she could spare me.

Blanche (Chapman) Mabbett's husband, Henry Mabbett, "prominent citizen of Quitman" died in December after a brief illness. They are survived by three children, Joe and Mildred of Quitman, and the older daughter Blanche, who married Joe Angus Ferguson of Decatur on May 25.

Margaret Herrington of Macon, a new junior at Wesleyan, is a cousin of Janie (Johnson) Tinsley of Hazlehurst, and of Dorothy (Tinsley) Dailey of Cardinas, Cuba.

Nannaline (King) Byrd's older son, Madison, is to be married this fall. His engagement was announced to Mary Jeanne McKay of Tampa, Florida, recently.

All reports say that she is a fine and very brilliant girl, but that does not surprise us as it would take an unusually smart one to interest Madison. Nannaline's younger son, Jim, graduated at Emory this past June and is now connected with one of the oldest and best General Insurance firms in Atlanta.

Ella Claire McKellar is assistant to Dean Knudson at Boston University. She visited her brother and sister-in-law, Professor I. E. McKellar of Wesleyan and Anna Belle (McCory) McKellar, of the class of '10, in Macon in August.

Carroll Tinsley, son of Janie (Johnson) Tinsley, and George Clary, son of Ruby (Mottweiler) Clary, Ex 1905, were among the Georgia delegates to the first world conference of Christian Youth which met in Amsterdam, Holland, in July and August. More than 1,500 delegates represented 71 nationalities in this unique gathering of young people from all over the world. Carroll wrote about the conference for the Macon paper.

Willie (Erminger) Mallary, Class Secretary

Class Secretary: Mrs. Clayton Buchanan (Mattie Adams), 208 Vineville Ave., Macon, Ga.

Loulie Barnett writes from Lakeland where she is staying at home with her mother: "Mother and I are intensely interested in Wesleyan and have been happy in the recent large gifts. I am adding to my earlier contribution, and mother is supplementing mine. Mother holds up well for one eighty-eight, attending church and missionary meetings regularly."

Alice (Burden) Domingos was installed as president of the Sidney Lanier Chapter of the U. D. C. in Macon in October.

Winrie May Hill opened her Nursery school and kindergarten at her Macon home in Cherokee Heights in September. Winnie watches the "alumnae" of her kindergarten throughout their grammar and high school careers, and is most valuable to the Macon club in working on the secondary school committees.

Elizabeth (Hines) Jones is the newly elected president of the Rose Garden Club Atlanta. She has won many blue ribbons and prizes in various flower contests.

Florence (Howard) Domingos' daughter, Florence is studying photography in New York this winter, and her son Angus is at Emory in Valdosta. She and her husband, Burr Domingos, known to Wesleyan contemporaries as the brother of Alice (Domingos) Evans, '12, keep their attractive home in Vineville open to their family and friends, and for Wesleyan meetings and teas. Burr is making a success with the clay mines at Bainbridge.

Friends will be grieved over the sudden death of Lucile (McRae) Wassell in Little Rock, on August the second. She was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage after breakfast and did not regain consciousness before her death that evening. The only warning had been as light numbness in the right hand for a day or two, enough to cause her to cancel plans for a picnic and to make an appointment with her physician, but otherwise she was in the midst of a happy, busy life. She was regent of her D. A. R. chapter for the past two years, and active in Sunday-School and church work. Since her husband's death during their honeymoon twenty years ago, she has been a beloved member in his family's household. Even her friends who did not know them had come to bless "Father and Mother Wassell" and their daughter Ruth as God's chosen people for their goodness to her who had lost her own father and mother and only sister before our college days together. Ruth Wassell Woodward wrote Alice (Burden) Domingos "Lucile talked of you and your family so often that I feel that I know you. She had such a good time at your house on her last visit there. The shock of her death was terrific to Mama and me. Lucile was Mama's close companion always, and even closer since my father's death last December."

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. C. Cantrell (Estelle Maning), Carrollton, Ga.

Nonie (Acree) Quillian and her son, W. F. Quillian, Jr. called at the college in September while they were the guests in Macon of her brother, Maurice and his wife, Clara (Carter) Acree, '19. "Bill" had recently returned from a year's study abroad, had visited the family at Lake Junaluska, had made the acquaintance of his new niece, Jane Searcy, and was on his way to Yale to complete the work on his Ph.D.

Sympathy is extended to Lucy (Coney) Brown of Warrentown in the death of her husband, Duncan Hancock Brown, in September after a long illness.

Willie (Erminger) Mallary of '07 writes: "I spent a day and night in Washington this summer with Tecoa (Hendry) Lewis. She and Charles B. have a lovely apartment and are very happy in Washington. Her sister, Nona (Hendry) Grady and Nona's son, Norman, took us on a beautiful drive around Washington. Nona was her same peppy self, and Norman is unusually attractive.

Class Secretary: Jennie Daughtry, Al-lentown, Ga.

Sarah Lee (Evans) Lippincott of 266 W. Tulpehocken St., Germantown, Pennsylvania, came with her sister, Lucy (Evans) Stephens and Dr. Stephens for a visit to Wesleyan in September. Sarah Lee visited the Stephens in their new home in Washington, Georgia. Her daughter, Sarah, is a sophomore this year at the nearby University of Pennsylvania, Alma Mater of Mr. Lippincott.

Kate Henderson's music pupils appeared in a recital in Macon this summer.

Edward (Isaacs) Bernd, son of Jessie (Isaacs) Bernd, was married during the summer to Carolyn Kea of Savannah. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Bashinski, in Savannah. Jessie's older daughter, Jean, graduated in the February class from Miller High School in Macon, and is now taking a business course.

Annabelle (McCrory) McKellar feels quite proud of her daughters, who both graduated with honor from Wesleyan, and were both elected to membership in the honor society, Phi Delta Phi. Suelle (McKellar) Swartz, A. B., '33, and her husband and little son now live in Roanoke, Virginia, and Addie Rie, A. B., '39, has a position as teacher in Ivanhoe, Virginia.

Helen (Mallary) Birdsey and her husband and her daughter, Sanford, divide their time between their beautiful home in Macon, and their attractive Spanish one in Miami. Last winter her daughter Pauline (Willingham) McGurk and Pauline's little daughter of Durham joined them for the Christmas holidays in Miami.

Cornelia Smith is teaching occupational therapy in the Pilgrim Hospital in Brookwood, Long Island.

Sincerely,

Jennie Daughtry, Class Secretary

1911

Class Secretary: Mrs. Warren Timmerman, (Marie Adams), 657 College St., Macon, Ga.

Sympathy is extended to Blanche (Adams) Parks in the death of her husband in March. Mr. Parks was associated with the Otis A. Murphey Company of Atlanta. He was a graduate of Emory University. Blanche has two sons, William Allen and Guyton Jr., and a daughter Blanche, a senior in high school.

Frances (Davenport) Rylander of Americus was back for commencement and wrote afterwards: "It certainly brought back old times to have that lovely time last Saturday. I do hope a great future for Wesleyan. She just can't die out and lose her prestige. I am going to send her my daughter who will soon be of college age."

Emma Gardner who is the alumnae chairman of the campaign at Adairsville visited the college a day while on her fall vacation to see what she could do next. She is internal auditor of the large mills at Rome, while her sister, Ethel, '13, teaches at Calhoun. They keep the home at Adairsville, and each of them are near enough to go home for week-ends, and to help in the church there. Emma has charge of the Junior Epworth League, and we are sure that she is the cause of their pledge of $25 to Wesleyan.

Annie (Miller) Lyndon and her son, Andrew, were among the Americans who had to wait for passage home from Europe at the outbreak of the war. Andrew was one of four University students who was to spend this year abroad as an exchange student. He had planned to study in France, and his mother had gone across with him for a long postponed first trip. They had an enjoyable month on the Continent, and had just reached Paris when hostilities began, and Andrew is now studying at Columbia University in New York and is planning to return as soon as possible for his year in a French university.

Class Secretary: Jennie Loyall, Wesleyan College, Macon, Ga.

Annie Sue (Bonnell) Pearce's husband, Dr. Hayward Pearce of the Emory University faculty, spoke in Macon in October on "The Lost Colony". Dr. Pearce has made extensive research into data surrounding the colony. Their son, Hayward, Jr., is a student at Emory.

Vivian Parker, niece and ward of Ves Parker and daughter of Vivian (Lee) Parker, a senior at the Conservatory, is president of Student Government there and gave a welcome to the new students at the opening exercise.

Camilla (Pharr) Barnett's daughter Vo Hammie graduated with first honor at the Washington high school and is attending the University of Georgia this fall, not far from home and where the son Aurelius is making a mark as an athlete and as a member of the band. Louise, an older daughter spent last winter in Leesburg, Fla. with Mitta (Pharr) Fields, '18, and took a business course there.

Alleen (Poer) Hinton had a delightful North Cape cruise during the summer joining Linda (McKinney) Anderson and her husband, W. D. Anderson, trustee.

We quote from the Macon papers in October: "The marriage of Betty Lambdin Yopp to Hugh Nunnally on November 25, will be one of the most brilliant happenings of the fall in Atlanta. Betty is the only daughter of Mrs. O'Keeffe and the late J. W. Yopp, well known publisher. From her mother the former Beatrice Lambdin, Miss Yopp inherits a personal charm that has made her an acknowledged belle."

Marie (McManus) Kernaghan's son, Bob, entered Miami University this fall.

Reba (Moore) Sandifer's husband, Dr. J. G. Standifer of Blakely, was elected grand high priest of the Grand Chapter, Royal Arch Masons at his convocation in April.

In a newspaper article "Native Georgians Assist in Shaping World Fair Plans" we find "Ruth (Stallings) Witherspoon, a native of Macon, and an alumna of Wesleyan College is with the children's world."

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. J. Taylor (Elizabeth Baker), 1985 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

Macon Representative, Mrs. J. C. Anderson (Annie Gantt), Stanislaus Cir., Macon, Ga.

Lucy (Benton) Walker of Monticello died February 21 of pneumonia. Surviving are her husband, two daughters, Frances and Virginia, four sisters and one brother, all of Monticello. Lucy was a member of the Methodist Church, of the Woman's Missionary society of the church, of the P. T. A., the Garden Club, the D. A. R. and U. D. C.

Sympathy is extended to Helen (Cater) Farmer, Kitty (Cater) Jones, A. B., '17. Jane (Cater) Sargent, B. M. '19, and Frances (Cater) Snow, A. B., '26, in the death of their father, Lewis F. Cater, vice-president of the Perry Loan and Savings Bank and former president of the Georgia County Bankers' Association in Perry, Ga., in September.

Sympathy is extended to Wray (Chester) Jones and to her sister, Lillian (Chester) Gober of the class of 1920 in the death of their mother in May.

Gertrude (Cotter) Woodward and her young son were visitors to the Wesleyan campus this fall, stopping by the library to see Gertrude's classmate, Katherine P. Carnes.

Dora (Dunwody) McManus' son, Leonard, Jr., entered business with his father in his real estate office in September. The elder Mr. McManus has been in the real estate business for 13 years, and is a member of the Macon Real Estate board, having served two terms as secretary and treasurer and two as vice-president.

Petrona (Humber) Hean is serving her second term as President of the Women's Church and Missionary Federation of Harrisburg, Pa., and has recently given two papers there before the Dauphin County Historical Society. Her daughter Elizabeth, in the second year of Junior High School, speaks of "When I go to Wesleyan where my mother, grandmother, and five aunts went to college," as if it would occur in the near future, Petrona says. Elizabeth makes the distinguished honor roll in her class of 800, plays the flute in the school orchestra, and sings in the junior choir. She settled the question of where she is going to college when she attended the centennial pageant in 1936.

Glady's (O'Neal) Barden's daughter, Ellen O'Neal Adams, was married in April to Randolph Brooks of Atlanta.

Florence Smith of Reynolds has been a successful music teacher "round and about Georgia" and has continued her music at the Conservatory during various summers.

Minnie (Smith) Ziegler has a position in the Columbus public schools as teacher of the first grade.

1914

Class Secretary: Mrs. Carroll Griffin (Kathleen Holder) 516 Westover Drive, Atlanta, Ga. Macon Representative, Mrs. C. B. Clay (Mary Emma Drew) 365 Cherokee Ave., Macon, Ga.

The class of '14 deeply sympathizes with Helen Branham in the death of her mother, Daisy (Tison) Branham of the class of 1884. Mrs. Branham was killed in an automobile accident between Tupelo, Mississippi and Brunswick, Ga. Helen was slightly injured when the car skidded and overturned, pinning both women beneath it.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. S. Dodd (Carolyn Knight), 1813 S. W. 11th St., Miami, Florida.

Anne Townsend (Bowdre) Willingham's son, Ben L. Willingham, Jr., was married in July to Virginia Marquis Feagin of Macon.

Mary Maude (Gibson) Oppenheimer, ficer and one of the leaders of the Savannah club, is building her a new home.

Eloise (Davis) Culverhouse's daughter, Ann, is a special student at Wesleyan this year, and is a student assistant in the Alumnae Office. Ann has completed a business course, and is a great help in the office.

1916

Class Secretary: Mrs. Jesse W. Davis (Merlyn Hiley), Jefferson Terrace, Macon, Ga.

Virginia (Connally) Courtright has moved from Mechanicsburg to Altoona, Penn., 1520-11th St.

Frances (Faust) Winn, B. M., '16, and her four-year-old son, Stewart Jr., are in Macon, having left Newcastle, England, shortly before war was declared. Stewart Sr., employed with the Thomas Hedley Company, subsidiary of Proctor and Gamble, remained in England, although he expects to join his family soon. Frances was met in Macon by her sister, Dixie (Faust) Williams, of the class of '18; her aunt Miss Rice, teacher in the Macon School system; and her mother-in-law, Gussie (Jones) Winn, A. B., '82, and is making her home temporarily with them.

Verna (French) Shaffer and her family have moved to Pachuta, Mississippi, thirty miles south of Meridian.

Merlyn (Hiley) Davis and her husband have recently purchased and remodeled one of the handsome antebellum houses of Jefferson Terrace near the Conservatory in Macon.

Mary Lou (Newton) Morris has a beautiful new home in Dublin where her husband has the Ford Agency and is interested in many other business enterprises. They sent their only daughter Marthelle to Wesleyan.

Freda (Schofield) Tutt's son, Jeff, graduated from high school in Macon in June, and has entered the freshman class at Mercer University.

In May of this year the New York Federation of Women's Clubs presented to Mai-ling (Soong) Chaing a medal of honor, "In Recognition of Her Indomitable Courage and Leadership in the Crisis of Her Native Land". This is the first time in ten years that such a medal has been presented; it was last given to Madame Marie Curie. The medal was presented to the Chinese Embassy in Washington, taken to China by Mr. Liu, who was leaving immediately for China, and presented to Madame Chaing by the International Woman's Club in Chungking, of which Miss Katherine Boeye, an American woman, is president.

Miss Boeye says: "Madame Chaing is truly modest. Her own wishes were that the medal should be given rather privately, without much ado. She was giving a tea party for her 150 Chinese women who have been her committee women in her whole program of War Relief Work, and the Medal was presented at this party. In accepting the medal, Madame Chaing said that she did so, not for herself, but in the name of Chinese womanhood, without whose help the program of relief work in China could never have been accomplished."

Emma (Sutherland) Scott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Sutherland, arrived in Macon, in October from Mrs. Sutherland's former home in Bangor, Ireland. They arranged for passage on the Orizaba, a small liner of the United States line, which carried a number of survivors of the Athenia, many of them wounded. The most exciting experience of the trip was a false alarm of fire which caused a near panic among the passengers, already jittery from the threat of German submarines. The Sutherlands will make their home in Macon this year.

Class Secretary: Mrs. T. H. Rentz (Jean Oliphant), Thrash Apts., Douglas, Ga.

C. Baxter Jones, Jr., son of Kitty (Cater) Jones, was elected Phi Beta Kappa at Emory University last year.

Edith (Culpepper) Turpin has an attractive cousin in the freshman class at Wesleyan this year, Ann Burkhalter of Roanoke, Alabama.

Marin (Elder) Jones' play, "Any Friday Night", received honorable mention in the Macon Little Theatre contest in the spring, and was presented by the Little Theatre. In the cast were: Florence (Trimble) Jones, A. B., '20; Rosa Lee Jones, daughter of Marion; and Frank Jones, son of Kitty (Cater) Jones, A. B., '17.

Gertrude (Hay) Jones and her husband have put into the Washington Library in Macon a number of books in memory of their son, Peyton, Jr., who died in 1935 at the age of 17.

Sympathy is extended to Mary (Lane) Mallet in the sudden death of her husband, Hugh Mallet of Jackson, in March.

Sympathy is extended to Leila (Legg) Blackburn, and to her sisters, Florence and Marion, in the death of their father, W. M. Legg of Albany, in October.

The class secretary of 1917, who can always be depended on to do her job well, blames herself when she does not get answers to her cards of inquiry to her classmates, saying, "As a class secretary, I am a fine vegetable gardener, or something totally different." Then she sends in the following:

Lillian (Cox) Girardeau of Atlanta, reminded me that we had not seen each other in ten years, though we do not live such a great distance apart. She stopped by my house one Sunday afternoon in the summer of 1928, not long before her marriage to James Girardeau. Her time has been taken up, she says, "with just running my house and bringing up two little girls, Frances nearly nine years old and Catherine, three.

"We have a lovely bunch of Wesleyanites in our group", she states. "Ruth (Pike) Key is chairman this year and she makes a good one. Sue (Tanner) McKenzie, Kathleen (Holder) Griffin, Miriam Rogers, Elizabeth (Day) Nunnally. Sara (Bowden) Dobbins, Elizabeth (Baker) Taylor and others that you remember are in this group. We have nice meetings and our programs have been interesting. We are studying Atlanta writers this year."

Of her sister, Helen, who was my favorite freshman, she reports: "Helen was down here this summer. She still lives in New York and has one little curly-haired girl, Mary Elizabeth, who will be twelve in February (just the age of my Jean, by the way). Helen spends her summers in Georgia and I look forward from one summer to the next to her visit.

She also spoke of her intention of spending Thanksgiving with the Shelnutts (Ida) in Sandersville.

Irene Kilpatrick (Mrs. F. Tanham of Tenaflly, N. J.) wrote me quite an epistle, and one very typical of her. Here are extracts:—

"There is nothing in my life to add distinction to the class of '17. How I wish there were! It is hard for me to realize that I am a middle-aged woman with some gray hairs but not stout. I weigh 125 pounds, slimmer than at graduation.

"We have a Northern Valley Chapter of the American Association of University Women, of which I am a member. There are several study groups in addition to the monthly lectures. I attend the one on music appreciation. We are studying the symphony and it is interesting even to one with no knowledge of music.

"I have held some offices in the Woman's Club, chairman of the art department, twice chairman of the literary department, on the hospitality committee, and this year as program chairman for two years. I went as delegate to the State Convention at Atlantic City last May. We have over 300 members and some fine lecturers.

"I am studying French with a French woman, hoping to learn to speak it. Our art department is studying French art this year. Recently I went to two interesting exhibitions in New York. One of paintings of Paris from the 17th to the 19th centuries, the other at the Morgan Library of French autographed letters, illuminated manuscripts, jewelled book covers, tapestries, paintings, etc.

"Being near New York I have many opportunities for cultural development. Sometimes I attend series of lectures at the Metropolitan Museum in Architecture, Life in Ancient Egypt, Greek Culture, Mediaeval Life, Italian Painting and other varied subjects.

"Occasionally I go to the lectures at Town Hall. The subjects cover the range of human interests.

"My hobbies are gardening, travel, Greek culture, Gothic Architecture, which keep me busy in spare moments. Each winter I get myself one particular subject to study.

"Two years ago Frank and I went to Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Greece, Italy and France. Charles Darwin said, 'Travel changes places from names on a map to pictures in the mind.' My 'pictures' are among my most cherished possessions. Motoring through England in May with the meadows and wood covered with blue bells and primroses, the peace of Fountains Abbey, the pyramids under the blazing sun where I could touch hands, as it were, with some of the great men of our civilization—Abraham, Moses, Joseph, Herodotus, Plato, Alexander the Great, Caesar, Napoleon—all looked at those structures standing there for over four thousand years. Baalbek in the moonlight, looking through the ruined columns of the temple to the Lebanon Mountains. The Acropolis at Athens in the quiet of the night when I could hear Pericles, Phidias, Herodotus, Aspasia and others admiring the new building. The boy of Naples, Lake Geneva at sunset, Winged Victory in the Louvre, superbly placed, as the French know how to place their treasures, and many others. My chief interest in travel is historical, but I enjoy natural beauty and I don't object the climate of Cuba, Bermuda, West Indies during winter."

Mary Pearl Chance (Mrs. Henry Cormac Hopkins of Waynesboro, Georgia) wrote a note, of which this is a part:—

"Our oldest boy went to Emory at Oxford, and graduated there in June. He will enter Emory University in the fall, taking the pre-medical course which is a long journey, but he is interested. Our youngest boy finished his sophomore year at high school. We go to our summer home in Saluda, N. C. after school closes, returning in September. Henry, the boys and I plan as many others do to go to New York to the Fair this summer."

"Looking over the list of Wesleyanites of 1917, I have checked these to write to next for news: Irene Kilpatrick who is Mrs. Frank Tanham of Brock Road, Tenaflly, N. J.; Mary (Lane) Mallett of Jackson, Ga.; Catherine (Oliver) Graves (Mrs. P. H.) of Neosha, Mo.; Drusilla (Douglas) Powell (Mrs. C. M., Jr.) Box 314, Henderson, Ky.; Helen (Betha) Riddle (Mrs. C. D.) 40 Avondale Road, White Plains, New York; Elizabeth (Davenport) Plant (Mrs. G. D.) 116 Averill, Lookout Mountain, Tenn.; and Patsy Huff, 7 Rose Place, Macon, Ga.

I'm writing to as widespread a representation as possible in order to cover a lot of ground and to uncover a lot of interesting news. I know that whatever Irene is doing will be of interest for she was always that sort of person, one who would be bound to do the unusual. Mary was the sort of person that everybody loved and would like to hear from. Catherine was one of the 'Oliver twins', whose names nearly always comes up in any discussion of our old school days. Anybody with the beauty and the cultured background that Drucilla Douglas had would be bound to have something outstanding to report. I happen to know that Helen Riddle has had a most interesting life. Her husband is one of the really big engineers of the country. They were in Milledgeville for a while where he was chief engineer at the Furman Shoals dam project, which was abandoned. From there he went to the TVA, and thence to Grand Coulee, where he had charge of one of the big units. I had a card from them at White Plains Christmas. She and her husband have adopted two darling children. I can't imagine a happier choice of parents for the youngsters, because Helen and Mr. Riddle have always seemed to me to know what things are worthwhile in life more than almost any couple I ever knew.

"If we can get as funny and Patsy-esque a report from Patsy Huff as I know she is capable of, it will be well worth reading. Nobody who was initiated into the Ku Klux Klan of the Class of '17 will ever forget Patsy!

"I hope that my system will work and bring some good results. I won't have much time to write, so I trust that each person written to will show the friendly cooperative spirit of Lillian Girardeau. My time and trouble for that month was amply repaid by hearing from somebody for whom I have always had a warm affection, and one whom I have not seen in ten years.

"Cordially,

"Jean (Oliphant) Rentz"

Dorothy (Smith) Bagwell's daughter, Dorothy, was married in June to Worth Edwin Yankey, son of the late Nina (Johnson) Yankey of the class of 1914.

The class of '17 will be grieved to learn of the death of Mary Virginia (Farmer) Hesse of Charleston, S. C., on September 22, 1938.

1918

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. L. Murphy (Marian Cook), 24 Roosevelt Place, Rockville Center, L. I., N. Y.

Sympathy is extended to Jennie Adams in the death of her father in August. Mr. Adams was a grocery and hardware merchant in Sandersville, Ga.

Lillian (McRae) Roush has a son, Duncan Roush, born last spring. Her daughter, Lillian, is a senior in high school.

Elsie (Morgan) Porters' husband, P. W. Porter, is a native of Pine Bluff, Arkansas. He is a talented writer, one of his plays having won first place in a national contest and been produced in New York.

Leonora (Neel) Krenson's son Billy entered Davidson College this fall.

In the spring Nyok Me (Pan) Chen of the Wesleyan class of '18 came to America, and was a guest at Wesleyan for Alumnae Day at Commencement. We asked Ida Shelnutt, whom she visited in Sandersville, to write something about her for the magazine, which she gladly did, as follows:

"It is always a pleasure to meet any Wesleyanne, but those living far away seem to have a special charm for all of us; and it was a delightful surprise this summer to see Mrs. Lee-Ting Chen, nee Nyok Me Pan, again in Georgia.

"She first came to Wesleyan, from China, in 1916, and for two years studied with Mr. Maerz. The following year she attended the New England Conservatory in Boston; returning to Shanghai at the end of the term.

"For the next two years she taught music in the McTyeire School there, and in 1921 married Mr. Lee-Ting Chen, an M. A. graduate of Yale in the class of 1916.

"A few years ago, with war clouds gathering threateningly over China, Mrs. Chen sought refuge at a German spa because of the delicate health of the younger son.

"About a year ago the other two children came to America with a friend and entered schools here in Georgia. Early this summer Mrs. Chen joined them, expecting the nurse and her son to come a few months later.

"Conditions have made this impossible. Her husband, now an important government official, had intended meeting them in Geneva, where he was scheduled to attend a conference; but war developments have changed those plans too now. We sincerely hope though that our courageous Nyok Me will soon have her family reunited here, if not in China."

Class Secretary: Mrs. A. L. Gilmore

(Rosaline Jenkins), 612 St. John's St., La-Fayette, La.

Linda (Anderson) Lane and her children, McKibben, Jr., Linda, and Billy spent several weeks in New York and went to the World's Fair.

Neal (Chapline) Sievers wrote in March from Detroit, Michigan, where she was on WWJ, the Detroit News radio station with a five minute sponsored program which she wrote and presented every Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Her sister, Alice (Chapline) Kelso, also a special of the class of '19, is the wife of a Judge of Nelsonville, Ohio.

Marie (Griswold) Whaler is credit manager for Miami Industrial Bank. She is also editor of the Credit Women's Club paper, "The Chatter Box".

Mary Ruth (Jones) Broyles of Gainesville, Fla., had the Wesleyan alumnae to meet at her house in March to make plans for helping in the Wesleyan campaign. Mary Ruth is superintendent of Christian Social Relations of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in Florida.

Mae (Sweet) Gilmore died suddenly in an Augusta hospital in April this year. She was a leading clubwoman of Sandersville, and was an active member of the Baptist church. Before her marriage she taught at Lanier High School in Macon. She is survived by her husband, a sister and a brother.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Mark Ethridge (Willie Snow), Prospect, Ky.

Sara (Singleton) King wrote in March: "When Wesleyan had its rally here the other day, Nell (Bates) Penland was really the best speaker. I thought you'd like to hear that she stacked up well with the Bishops, etc. I am sending a clipping of her speech. I think, however, it was best when heard, since poise and personality counted so much.

"For more than a year and a half I have been managing a business, the Singleton Furniture Company, left me by my father, so there hasn't been a chance for me to do much writing.

"Perhaps Wesleyan would like to know that, as one of her daughters, I'm still the kind of person who continues the habit of studying. In spite of the statement I once read that studying after one is forty is harder than digging a ditch, I'm nearly a graduate Interior Decorator now from the New York School of Interior Decoration, having completed all the work except the final examination.

"I have, since my last writing to the college, acquired a little, blonde daughter who can go to Wesleyan in about ten years. She is my husband's grandniece by blood and our daughter by adoption. My husband, myself, and our twelve-year-old son adore this addition to the family. She's so much better than the dogs, kittens, turtles, pigeons, goats, ducks, chickens, and even snakes we've added to the family for years."

Willie (Snow) Ethridge and her husband Mark Ethridge, vice president and manager of the Louisville Courier Journal, had a delightful trip to South America during the summer. They spent more than two months there, and traveled largely by airplane. Their new son-in-law, husband of their daughter Mary Snow Ethridge, is the radio announcer, John S. Tillman, Jr., whose pleasant voice from N. Y. has attracted many of us as we have listened to the news of the world war.

Hazel (Stokes) Thompson and her family have moved into their lovely new home in Stanislaus Place, Macon.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Eugene Torrance (Mary Fagan), 532 E. 37th St., Savannah Ga.

Marion (Padrick) Woodard and her husband have adopted a little girl, Dale, now about fifteen months old. They have one child of their own, a son.

Lora (Waterman) Burke, her husband and son, Ed, Jr., took a motor trip to New York City this summer, stopping in Maryland to visit relatives.

Among the visitors to Wesleyan in the spring was Martha (Wills) English, who was in the states on a visit from her home in Calcutta, India, where her husband was with the Standard Oil Company. She was interested in all the news of her old teachers and Wesleyan friends, and promised to let us hear from her more often in the future. Sure enough, in the summer there was a note from her giving her new address, c/o the Standard Oil Company, Bombay, India.

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. T. Flanders (Bruce Cleckler) 206 Buford Place, Macon, Ga.

Josie (Buxton) Jones died on July 10, 1938. Her husband, William B. Jones, associated with the Dr. Pepper Bottlers Corporation, Greenville, S. C., notified the Alumnae Office in November of last year, and wrote: "A son born to her at that time survives."

Henrietta Collings, music supervisor of the Macon school system, directed a vocal concert of more than 500 grammar school pupils in April, before an audience of 2,000 persons.

Sympathy is extended to Isabelle (Hackett) Kinnett in the death of her husband, Don. D. Kinnett of Macon, in July. He was associated with the Cotton-States Fertilizer Company for 14 years. Isabelle has two children, Don Kinnett, Jr., and Mary Isabelle.

Kate (Lyons) Ainsworth accompanied her daughter, Eloise, to Macon this fall, and paid a visit to Mary (Nicholson) Ainsworth and Bishop Ainsworth. Kate and her husband live now in San Francisco, Calif., where Mr. Ainsworth is director of the Chamber of Commerce. Eloise is president of the junior class at Wesleyan.

A charming picture of Margaret (Smith) Weaver of Macon and her daughters, Mary and Ann, appeared in the Macon paper in September.

Mary (Wilson) Adams' cousin, Ruth Wilson, is a member of the Wesleyan freshman class this year. Ruth is a cousin also of Louise Wilson, '38, of Tifton, Ga.

1923

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. A. Patterson (Ruth Sears), Cuthbert, Ga.

Millie (Baird) Hall's ten-year-old son, Hartley, had a poem published in Child Life, national children's magazine, in August. From hundreds of poems submitted to the magazine's junior editors department Hartley's poem, "The Village by the Lake" was selected for one of the cash awards. The poem was sent in by Sally May Akin, A. B.,

'90, Macon librarian, and is as follows:

*Down by the cool and crystal lake,
Where the breezes tiny ripples make,
There is a village on the ground
Which the crystal lake turns upside down.*

*Tall trees are growing by the lake,
And many dainty flowers, too.
The lake enlarges each thing's size
With a sky of lofty blue.*

*A robin gaily passes through
And pausing, looking down,
He sees a frog jump into the lake,
Making the village a ripple town.*

Wilhemena (Bond) Bradshaw who has charge of the Wesleyan campaign in Waycross was recently awarded a cup for her outstanding civic work.

Mildred Boulton has taught journalism and biology in the high school in Paducah, Kentucky, for several years. The combination, she says, is unusual, but more refreshing than most. She was in school at the University of Michigan this summer. She promises to come to Wesleyan for a visit soon.

Alice Mattox is Mrs. David L. Evans of Largo, Florida.

Mildred (Shelton) Hitch of Savannah has a son, Bill, born in May.

Mildred (Shuptrine) Chance is the new president of the Savannah Wesleyan Alumnae Club.

Mildred (Taylor) Stevens is the recently elected chairman of the Macon Town Committee of the Georgia Society of Colonial Dames. She completed a successful term as president of the Macon History Club beautifully presiding at its Golden Anniversary dinner, and ending her administration with a tea at which she and her mother, Mrs. R. J. Taylor were co-hostesses.

1924

Class Secretary: Mary Thomas Maxwell, G. S. C. W., Milledgeville, Ga.

Lillian (Budd) Jackson is invaluable to the Macon Alumnae Club as leader of the Conservatory Group. She spent a morning at the Alumnae Office recently helping to run down lost addresses, writing class notes for the magazine, etc.

Rachel Clements married Henry F. Doody on February 7, 1938. She is dietitian at the U. S. Veteran's Hospital, Bronx, N. Y., and her address is 2515 University Ave., Bronx.

Aurelia (Cooper) Evans has a little daughter, Martha.

Elizabeth (Comer) Wiese is improving after an illness during the summer. She and her two children plan to spend April with her mother Lula (Johnson) Comer of the Conservatory. Elizabeth's husband is superintendent and chaplain of the Patterson School, Legerwood, N. C.

Lucy (Cunyus) Mulcahy's husband, a native of New Haven, Conn., is construction supervisor of the Federal Housing Administration in Atlanta.

Ellen Hunt's cousin, Ruby Rosser of Atlanta, is a student at Wesleyan this year.

Lucile (Killingsworth) Shelor of Anderson, S. C., writes: "My only child, a son, is entering the eighth grade at school this year. I shall have to brush up on my Latin and algebra.

"There are only a few Wesleyannes in our town. Alice (Teasley) Ledbetter, has been living here several years, and Grace Teasley, her sister, married Professor Sandlin of the Boy's High School faculty, and will be another charming addition. I am delighted that Winifred Rogers, '23, is going to teach in Greenville, S. C., this winter. I saw her in Moultrie this summer. I'm getting very anxious to visit Wesleyan again."

Elizabeth Malone is assistant librarian in the Children's Room at Cossitt Library in Memphis, Tennessee.

Mary Miller who lives in Brunswick, and teaches in Jacksonville (she and Isabella have an apartment together there) took a party to Mexico this summer. It was a twelve day trip leaving from New Orleans.

The class of '24, will be distressed to learn of the sudden death of Ruth (Oliver) Bell of Cairo on September 2, of pneumonia. Ruth's husband, R. A. Bell, is an attorney, Mayor of Cairo, and member of the state legislature. She leaves four children, Mary-lil, Martha, Alice Rebecca, and Arthur Jr., the oldest about eight, the little boy, a year and a half.

Dot Sorells, who lives in Houston, Texas and teaches in the high school there, spent the summer in the British Isles and stopped by for a short visit with Floy (Cook) Stephenson, A. B., '23, in College Park before returning to Houston. She returned on the Mauretania just about three weeks before the war broke out.

Mary Wilkerson is art instructor of Cooper Hall school in Rome. Since graduating from Wesleyan she has studied at Columbia, Duke, and the University of N. C., and studied portrait painting from Clement Sturdwick, and water color from Gregory Ivey. For the past fourteen years she has been art instructor in the schools of Durham.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Carey Williams (Celestie Copelan) Greensboro, Ga.

Lucile Carswell was honored by the seniors of Miller High School where she teaches by having last year's annual dedicated to her.

Celeste (Copelan) Williams' cousin, Mary Paige Adams of Greensboro, Ga., is one of the new girls at Wesleyan this fall.

Mary Bennett (Cox) Dunwody, her husband, and sons, W. Elliott III, and Eugene, returned to their home in Macon in September after a three-weeks' trip to California and Canada.

Addie Beall Early is studying this year at the University of Georgia, where she holds a fellowship. She taught in the summer school of Mercer University.

Stella (Johnson) Ambrose brought her ten-year-old daughter, Patsy, to Wesleyan in the summer to show her the new campus at Rivoli. Patsy is enthusiastically planning to come to Wesleyan in a few years. Stella and her family live at Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Sympathy is extended to Rose (Nottingham) Proctor in the death of her father on October 23.

Frances (Peabody) McKay's four-year-old son, Clifford Jr., had an amazing recovery from pneumonia in April through the use of a newly developed serum, sulfapyridine. Her daughter Mary celebrated her twelfth birthday in October. Frances is one of the most valuable alumnae in Macon, giving her time and her professional experience with the Macon newspapers to promote the publicity for all alumnae undertakings.

Mary K. (Read) Brannen did not move to Georgia as her friends here had hoped when Hugh Brannen bought the Milledgeville Daily Times last year. Their plans were changed, and Hugh sold the paper to Tom J. Twitty of Macon, and is himself a member of the staff of the Washington, D. C. Times-Herald.

Ruby Tanner was supervisor of the Y. W. C. A. pool in Macon this summer. Ruby has for the past five summers been athletic director of Camp Koweta at Fairburn, Ga. She is a member of the faculty of Lanier High School for Girls in Macon.

Here's a personal note from Eunice Thomson, A. B., '25, to the Alumnae Magazine:

"Elizabeth Winn and I, believe it or not, went to Europe this summer. It happened like this: we were pegging away at Wesleyan this spring as usual, trying to keep the records on students and alumnae respectively, when there came a letter from Winn's brother who is working in England saying: 'Why don't you and one of your friends come over and see this side of the world before they shoot it up? I'll take you on an automobile trip over the continent if you will.' Well, the result of it was that we went, sailing on June 14, on the Aquitania, and getting back just a few weeks before the shooting started, broke and footsore, but as excited as we used to be over basketball games in the old gym on Thanksgiving! We spent a week in Paris before Stewart and his wife, Frances (Faust) Winn, B. M., '16, joined us, and had the time of our lives, trying to see everything in the city, learning to manage the subways and buses, climbing to the top of Sacre Coeur and goodness knows what other heights, spending afternoons in the Bois with Jennie Loyall, A. B., '12, who was also in Paris, seeing the quaint old streets with Dr. John Ware, professor of French at Shorter, whom we met quite by chance in the Latin quarter, going to the opera and the Comedie Francaise, the museums and places mentioned in the guide-books, and some that are not mentioned.

"We went to a French nursing home and saw Genevieve (Vasset) Sannie, A. B., '32, and her little daughter, Nicole, just a few days old, and talked to her charming mother and father in a sort of conglomeration of copy-book French and copy-book English.

"After Stewart and Frances joined us in Reims, we toured Switzerland and southern France, spending five days in the former and going in an incredibly short time from the snow-covered mountains of the Grimsel Pass to the Mediterranean coast with a temperature like that of July in Georgia.

"We went to Newcastle, England for ten days with the Winns, to Scotland for a week-end, and to London for a week before sailing for home.

"In New York, I visited Mamie Harmon and her friend, Theresa Brakeley, who have an apartment on West Fourth Street. My sister came up to join me, and we did New York and the Fair as thoroughly as one can in a week, this being her first trip to the city. Nancy Stewart, A. B., '29, in New York for the summer was with us often.

"Marie (New) Fisher, '27, as pretty and vivacious as ever, was in New York for a few days doing some shopping, and we talked far into the night about all the Wesleyan people we knew. Marie's husband is in newspaper work, and they are living in Washington, D. C., at 1530-16th Street.

Class Secretary: Mrs. Cubbedge Snow (Frances Cater), 116 Callaway St., Macon, Ga.

Dorothy (Allen) Lund, treasurer of the Miami club broke a record when she attended the luncheon meeting of the club honoring Linda (McKinney) Anderson on the day she moved into her new home. "She is a wonderful girl, a mother, housekeeper, is interested in her church activities, a teacher in Edison High School, and with all that is never too busy to do what she is asked for Wesleyan", one of her fellow club members writes of her.

Elizabeth (Anderson) Rankin's daughter, Mary Donalson Rankin, was born March 5.

Frances (Cater) Snow and her son, Cubbedge, Jr., attended the New York World's Fair this summer, and visited Frances' sister, Jane (Cater) Sargent of the class of 1919, in New Haven, Conn. Frances' little daughter, Cater, visited her aunt, Helen (Cater) Farmer in Macon, while her mother was away.

Elsie (Hart) Jones, Conservatory, died April 2, after an illness of two weeks following the birth of her son, Robert Bruce Jones, Jr. The baby, Elsie's only child, survives.

Mamie Jones has returned to Georgia this fall from Evanston, Ill., as supervisor of courses in speech at the Georgia Teachers' College in Statesboro. Mamie holds the M. A. degree from Northwestern University and the B.L.I. from Emerson College.

Freda (Kaplan) Nadler and Sylvia (Kaplan) Cohen, A. B., '21, have a cousin in the freshman class this year, Shirley Kassner of Macon. Shirley is, like her cousins, particularly interested in journalism, and was high school correspondent for the Macon Telegraph last year.

Class Secretary: Mrs. H. B. Hoover (Loretta Jones), Trapelo Road, Lincoln, Mass.

Virginia (Arnall) Moody has a little daughter a year old November 7.

Virginia (Childs) Bootle's daughter, Ann, celebrated her fourth birthday August 12.

Eugene Cook of Wrightsville, husband of Julia Adelaide (McClatchey) Cook, was recently elected district governor of the Georgia Lions clubs at a state convention in Clayton. Judge Cook, says the newspaper story announcing his election, has an outstanding record of public service since his graduation from Mercer University. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Mercer, of Brewton-Parker Junior College, and of Wrightsville High School. He served as solicitor and judge of the city court, is president of the Dublin Judicial Circuit Bar Association and member of the American Bar Association. He is a member of the Masons, Woodmen of the World, Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity, Central Georgia Boy Scout Council, vice-president of the Georgia Baptist Sunday School convention, and deacon of Brown Memorial Baptist church in Wrightsville.

Virginia Hall, art supervisor of the Macon schools, had an exhibition of work done by her pupils in April at the city auditorium.

Susie (Heard) Fleischer and her husband have moved into their new home in Shirley Hills, Macon.

In the October issue of The World Outlook, under the heading "Bennett College Alumnae Speak" is news of Heloisa Marinho, who studied at Wesleyan and later at the University of Chicago, and is at present a member of the faculties of Colegio

Bennett and also of Teachers' College of the Rio de Janerio University in Brazil, her specialty being child psychology. Heloisa's sister, Celita, also graduated at Bennett, and is now married and living in Rio, the two young women being valued members of Rio society. They are members of a fine old family which has furnished many distinguished citizens to Brazil. Their father, Dr. John Marinho, is on the faculty of the national School of Medicine and is an outstanding specialist in ear, nose and throat diseases.

Mary (Michaux) McPherson has four little boys, ages, ten, eight, four and one years.

Emily Neel is a director of the G. E. A. She is teaching in Columbus and was one of the members of the Columbus club who accompanied their high school seniors to Dormitory Day.

Class Secretary: Mrs. E. W. Strozier, Jr., (Mary Nell Wiley), Oxford, Ga.

Of the 80 literary graduates of the class of '28, 58 are married. The majority of the rest are teaching, but some have gone into other fields: Agnes Anderson into welfare work; Margaret Chapman into Girl Scout work; Induk Pak into the mission field; Annie Mays into library work; Martha Watts into supervisory W. P. A. work. The class is widely scattered. The list of addresses includes eighteen states and Cuba, although eleven of the graduates live in Macon, and have helped in the efficient Alumnae organization for the campaign.

May (Ainsworth) Walton lives in Macon, and was one of the group of 90 alumnae workers in the recent campaign. She has a daughter, Sarah Ann, born Oct. 3.

Salome (Anderson) Farrar, her husband and six-year-old son have moved to Wilson, N. C.

As State Consultant for Child Caring Institutions, Agnes Anderson addressed the Georgia Conference on Social Work in Atlanta in April on "Child Welfare with Special Reference to Institutional Service", and the Tri-State Conference of Orphanage Workers in Thomasville, N. C. in April on "A View of Child Welfare in Georgia".

Katherine (Armstrong) Bivins has a son, Benjamin Land Bivins, born June 28.

Edith (Belcher) Kelly brought her children, P. T. Kelly II and Edith Louise to visit their Belcher grandparents in Macon this summer. Edith and her husband have just bought a new home in Edison Park, Chicago, Ill., 7256 Greenleaf Ave.

Mary Louise (Foster) Swearingen and her husband, a professor at G. S. C. W. in Milledgeville, spent most of the summer in Mexico.

Marjorie (Jacob) Caudill and her husband of Regla, Cuba, visited relatives in the states this summer.

Roberta (Jones) Gardiner has a son, George, born in July.

Dorothy (McKay) Bollendonk's daughter, almost a year old now, is named Anne LeConte Bollendonk, and called "LeConte".

Mary Lou (Martin) Davis' husband, Superior Judge James C. Davis, was given a surprise dinner by 150 members of the bar association in his section to celebrate his fifth anniversary as judge of the Stone Mountain Judicial Circuit. The picture in one of the Atlanta papers at the time shows him receiving congratulations from Young H. Fraser, husband of Emily Jane (Wimpy) Fraser, '17, and Judge Augustus M. Roan, husband of Margaret (Zattau) Roan, '26, both men being on the board of governors of the Georgia Bar Association.

Marguerite (Matheson) Nichols' husband is a druggist in Everglades, Fla.

In the "Christian Herald" for January of this year is an article called "Korea's Feminine Kagawa" by William L. Stidger. It is about Induk Pak, who received her A.B. degree at Wesleyan in '28. Since her graduation she has traveled in 32 countries, absolutely alone, speaking to groups in the interest of Korea. Then she went back to Korea, organized the "Society for Work among Korean Women", wrote a book on conditions in her country, and is today working to free her fellow countrywomen from ignorance and poverty.

Helen (White) Thornton and her husband have moved into their new home, 1227 Rawson Drive, Albany. Helen is president of the Wesleyan Club of Albany.

Class Secretary: Mrs. B. B. Blalock (Elizabeth Gill), Moultrie, Ga.

Bessie Will (Elrod) Unger of Westminster, Md., has a son, Maurice Henry, born September 13.

Marion Faircloth is working with B. H. Levy Company, department store in Savannah. She was recently made department manager.

Sara Lamon is the newly elected president of the North Highlands Garden Club in Macon.

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. Wesley Green (Charlye Matthews) Fort Valley, Ga.

Caroline (Anderson) Pierson has a son born in January, and a new home in Marietta which she has been in a year or more.

Marguerite (Gunn) Mendinhall lives at 1114 Broome St., Wilmington, Del. Her husband is a partner in Brown and Madden, Inc., real estate firm of Wilmington.

Mary (Hudson) Peddy, Conservatory '30, is living now at 719 Penn Ave. N. E., Atlanta. Mary's sister, who came to Wesleyan to enter her daughter, a freshman this year, says that Mary's little daughter, Mary Peddy, is entering kindergarten this fall.

Agnes (Kelly) Hardwick's husband, James Carlton Hardwick, is a brother of Maude (Hardwick) McIver, A.B. '32. They live at 613 Kennesaw Ave., Atlanta.

Helen (Ross) Dennis has a son, Peter Edward Dennis, born in August.

A picture of Julia (Lamar) Parish with Susan Myrick and Clark Gable appeared in the papers recently. Julia's husband is an aviator stationed at Long Beach, Calif., and Miss Myrick, the Macon newspaperwoman who has been serving as technical director of "Gone With the Wind", has returned this fall to Macon.

Helen (Kilpatrick) Lyon's husband is connected with the Coca-Cola Company, with headquarters in Atlanta, and her address is 648 Cresthill Ave.

Louise Mackay is now society editor of the Atlanta Journal.

Class Secretary: Mrs. F. C. Nixon (Hazel Macon), Valdosta, Ga.

Mary Baldwin has been appointed assistant to Dr. J. F. Bozard, dean of Limestone College, Gaffney, S. C.

Christine Beavers, has taught for the past three years in Elberton, Georgia. The Georgia Educational Journal for March carried an article on "Modern Trends in Elementary Education as to Grade Lines", written by her.

Paula (Belcher) Murray, her husband and little daughter, Marion, live in Washington, D. C. Paula is working in the Library of Congress, in the Hispanic Room Documents Department.

Mary (Chapman) Coursey, Conservatory, lives in California, where her husband, a graduate of Annapolis, is stationed at the San Diego air base.

Eugenia (Coleman) Wasden is the new president of the Macon Junior League. Frances (Cater) Snow, '26 is vice-president; Louise (Cater) Hall, '30, recording secretary; Clara (Kinney) Stribling, '28, corresponding secretary; and Ruth (Renfro) Browder, '35, editor of "League Leaves", the magazine of the organization.

Frances Dorsey has made a miraculous recovery from a very serious illness. She spent a year in the hospital, but is fit as a fiddle again and has just gone on a vacation trip with her sister, Katherine.

Carolyn Fryer enjoys her work as a doctor's assistant in Hollywood, Florida. She is a Registered Nurse, graduate of Johns Hopkins.

Margaret Hatcher sailed June 28 from New York for a summer abroad. She was given a farewell party before sailing by her cousins, Margaret (Murphey) Martin, and Mary (Murphey) Dillon.

Roba (Jackson) Wynn and her family live in Harlingen, Texas. She has a son, Floyd, and a daughter, Mary Jo.

Rachel (Johnson) Ross has a daughter, Susan, born in September.

Bessie (Lester) Hart is president of the Woman's Missionary Society of Mulberry Methodist church in Macon.

Among the freshmen this year is Catherine (Long) Hall's cousin, Louise Long of Leesburg, Ga. Catherine died in 1936 after the birth of her baby.

A photograph of Martha (McCowen) Burnet's children, Martha and Linning, won a cash award in the September issue of The Boys' Outfitter-Styles of Youth, a trade magazine. Martha and her family live in Ware Shoals, S. C.

Grace (Teasley) Sandlin's husband is a member of the faculty of the Boys' High School of Anderson, S. C., where Grace has been a teacher. He has taken an active part in Little Theatre work in the city and is well known in local business and social circles.

Sympathy is extended to Rosa (Vickers) McAlister of Macon, to Jacqueline Vickers, a member of the sophomore class at Wesleyan, daughters, and to Willie (Ramsey) Wisenbaker of Lake Park, adopted daughter, in the death of their father, J. J. Vickers of Brunswick.

Jean Willis of Bainbridge, a cousin of Callie Mae Willis and of Bessie (Lester) Hart, is a member of the freshman class this year. Callie Mae's tragic death while a senior at Wesleyan in 1927 brought sorrow to all the college.

1932

Class Secretary: Mrs. C. E. Watts, Jr., (Blanche Wannamaker), Bennettsville, S. C.

Temperance (Burson) Lear is teaching music in the Cairo, Ga., public schools.

Harriet (Fiske) Magiure has a son, born October 6.

Marion (Gertman) Wynn has recovered from a long illness. She and her five-year-old daughter spent some time at St. Simon's this summer.

Christine (Glausier) Tidmore was at St. Simon's this summer with her two children, Jan and Barbara Jo. Christine's husband is a successful doctor in Dawson, Ga.

Dixie Jones is now Child Welfare Consultant in WPA work, with headquarters in McRae, Ga.

Malene Lee is now secretary to the president of the First National Bank in Macon. In June she suffered a severe accident while riding horseback near the home of her uncle, Dr. W. G. Lee of Macon, but has recovered. Her Wesleyan friends are delighted to have her back in Macon.

Carolyn (Lowe) Bridgett lives at 148 Willow St., Brooklyn, N. Y., where her husband is with a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Ray (McDaniel) Nelson and her family live in Thomaston. She has two children, a boy six, and a girl three.

Eugenia Rawls appeared in the Globe Theatre repertory at the World's Fair in New York this summer. Her picture appeared in the New York Times in a scene from Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream".

Ellen Neille (Smith) McDonald's husband is with the Pelham Banking Company.

Virginia (Townsend) Munford has moved from Waynesboro, Penn., to 6100 McCallum Street, Germantown, Penn., where Sims' business takes him. During the summer, Wesleyan received the gift of a lovely painting by the artist, Terry Mitchell of Waynesboro, who heard of Wesleyan through Virginia. The painting is of a rolling Pennsylvania landscape, with typical green fields under cultivation. It has been placed in the Wesleyan library.

Virginia writes: "We like Philadelphia fine except for the hurry and bustle, but we hope to get citified soon. We have an apartment in Oliver Hall in Germantown, and I am having lots of fun being an interior decorator. We are just getting our own furniture which is a pleasure. While we were in Waynesboro we did collect some old pieces and now we are proud of them."

Eleanor (Whitehead) Simms of Gatlinburg, Tenn., has a young son, Charles Sumner Simms, Jr.

Frances (Zachry) Mizell is continuing her Social Service work in Memphis, Tenn. since her marriage in January. Her husband, who attended the University of Georgia and Tulane University, is in insurance business in Memphis.

Roberta (Cason) Cox of 205 King St. Rd., Alexandria, Virginia, writes:

"Blanche (Wannamaker) Watts asks me to write to Wesleyan telling you what I know of the girls in our class, so here goes.

"The most important news I know concerns Blanche herself. She now has an infant daughter, Leila Robey, born August 25th. I understand that she is a perfect daughter so far. And Bud, the older baby, is thoroughly fascinated over having a baby sister. Bud, by the way, is practically three years old now, has big brown eyes and ringlets. Probably Leila's hair will be straight, but after all, who cares? She is no doubt adorable.

"Vida (Barnett) Early came through Alexandria in the spring en route to Florida. She and Robert Early are located at Point Marion, Penn., and according to all reports are enjoying their work in the Church there very much.

"Blanche Duvall is still with Eastern Air Lines with offices in Miami. Just now her chief interest is the cultivation of roses and other flowers on her sun deck, and her chief disappointment that she is having to defer until Christmas a personal interview with Bo's youngest. I haven't seen Bay since last Christmas. At that time she was as much fun as ever and admired my baby enough to satisfy even my husband.

"Marjorie Watson is continuing her efforts in instructing the youth of the land. She is a member of the English department of the high school in Greenwood, S. C., and is so content there that she keeps returning with the coming of the Septembers although she says she definitely planned to go somewhere else this fall, and at the last moment just couldn't!

"Ruth McMichael is working in Atlanta. I was delighted to get to see her when we were in Atlanta this summer, and to have her present when our baby was christened.

"The news from me is that I am having the time of my life coping with rising prices and a growing daughter and enjoying my husband. We have always been camping-minded and are just back from our latest excursion—a long week-end at Big Meadows in the Virginia Blue Ridge. Ellen Deane thinks camping is a delight, and she seems to enjoy the mountains. By the way, Ellen Deane is named for her two living great-grandmothers, one of them, Lura Deane Smith Brinkley is a Wesleyan alumna. Just now she is extremely ill at her son's, Dr. S. G. Brinkley, 1197 Emory Drive, N. E., Atlanta, Ga.

"Warren, Ellen Deane, and I had a grand time going to Georgia for our vacation this summer. It was a blow to me not to get to Macon, but the time was gone before we knew what had happened. However, in Atlanta I saw Frances Knott Smith and her little Barbara who is just as cute and sweet as can be, and had more "manners" than any baby I've ever seen. Too, I saw Louise Pittman Peabody's pretty new home that is so perfect in details that anybody would know Walton must be an architect even if they had never met him. Young Walton was a perfect picture of health babyhood. Ellen Deane thoroughly enjoyed meeting her friends.

"You no doubt know all about Ellen Neille Smith becoming Mrs. MacDonald this summer on June 29th. I saw her uncle on the street one day while we were in Georgia and he reported that Ellen Neille was in a state of great excitement and in his opinion was as happy as the proverbial bird in the spring, tra, la.

"Wedding bells rang for Exa Rumble, too, when she married Wendell Whitcher of Boston, Mass. late in July. Exa received her second Masters degree from Havard this June; her first was of Emory extraction. She seemed very happy to be returning to Boston.

"I believe that's all I know about classmates. I wish it were more. I get hungry for news of the girls in the class of '32.

"With best wishes to you and to all the folks I love at Wesleyan."

Roberta (Cason) Cox.

Genevieve (Vasset) Sannie wrote from Paris in January "We are all very glad that 1938 is over; we had to pass through a series of very dark and terrible days last September. Now everything is going pretty well for us; I still act as secretary for my husband and am enjoying it. I hope everything is well with that dear Wesleyan where I spent such a happy year." Early in July, she had tea in her attractive apartment for Jennie Loyall, alumnae secretary; the other guests were Genevieve's month old daughter Nicole, and the two grandmothers. The family was planning to leave soon for "the country", where Mr. Vasset had recently bought a place, as had many men living in Paris so that the women and children could go there in case of war. We regret that the dark days are upon them again.

1933

Class Secretary: Mrs. Hubert Searcy (Christine Quillian), Huntingdon College, Montgomery, Ala.

Hazel Austin had a wonderful trip to the west coast this summer. She is librarian in the Carnegie Library in Moultrie.

Sympathy is extended to Ernestine Bledsoe in the death of her father of a heart attack in August.

Margaret (Cantrell) Isaacs of Columbus has a son a year old in October.

Helen (Flanders) Mosely and her husband live in Kansas City, Mo. now. Helen often sees Miss Agnes Hamilton, formerly of the Wesleyan faculty.

Sympathy is extended to Carol Flatau in the death of her mother, Estelle (Hertz) Flatau of the class of '94, in September.

Carol's father died on August 2, of last year.

Mary (Griffin) Smith has a young son, born during the summer.

Thelma (Herndon) Holman writes: "I moved to Ozark, Alabama, last September when my husband started the practice of medicine here."

Lelia (Jones) Horton and her husband, Ensign Harry Nelson Horton, have moved from San Diego, Calif., to Pensacola, Fla., where Ensign Horton is stationed at the U. S. Naval Airplane Training Base.

Sympathy is extended to Ruth (Key) Butler in the death of her father, former Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta, in April.

Dorothy (Lombard) Singletary lives in Atlanta, and keeps busy with her home and baby girl.

Elsie (Lowden) Maxwell has a daughter, Susan, born in the spring.

Helen (McGrew) Fortney of Thomasville writes: "My daughter Margaret felt quite left out when we saw in the last fall magazine the announcements of other children born during the previous year. She arrived July 23, 1937, so she considers herself nearly grown now. We hope she will be attending Wesleyan at some later date."

Dorothy (Manget) Hagan is living in Nashville, Tenn. This has been an important and happy summer for Dot and her husband, for in May they moved into their new home, and on July 16 their son, James Edwin, was born.

Mary Norman is teaching in Cedartown, Ga.

Carolyn Roth was in Junaluska, N. C. this summer attending the Leadership Training School, and we had such good times talking about our days at Wesleyan. Carolyn is with the State Health Department in Jacksonville, Fla., and has made rapid progress in her work and had many interesting experiences.

Mary (Rudisill) Trippe has done good work as president of the Wesleyan Club of Milledgeville. She comes over to Wesleyan from time to time for meetings of the Alumnae Council.

Frank (Shumate) Denton visited in Montgomery last fall, and I enjoyed seeing her and her handsome son, who is about three now.

I had a grand time having lunch with Lucille (Wallace) Nuckolls in her lovely new home in Gainesville, Ga., this summer.

Pauline Willingham had planned to sail September 16 for Europe to be married to John Allen Moore and join him in religious work in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, but the outbreak of war in Europe has caused her to postpone her marriage indefinitely. She is with her parents in Macon, and expects to join her fiance as soon as possible. Since graduating from Wesleyan, Pauline has taken additional work at W. M. U. Training School in Louisville, Kentucky, has taught in Bible schools in the Kentucky mountains, and for the past year served as secretary for the First Baptist Church in Tifton, Ga.

You should see my young daughter now. She is a real little lady and almost old enough to make a trip to Wesleyan. We are planning to go soon. Hubert and I are enjoying our work here in Montgomery. Montgomery and Huntingdon remind me so much of Macon and Wesleyan that I could not help but love them.

With love and good wishes to all of you,

Sincerely,

Christine (Quillian) Searcy,
Class Secretary

Class Secretary: Mrs. Ward Pafford (Sarah Jones, Valdosta, Ga.

Rietta Bailey is teaching playwriting and dancing at Mount Allison School for Girls and directing the Little Theatre at the University of New Brunswick, Sackville, New Brunswick, Canada. On September 4 she finished her second season as a member of the production staff of The Lost Colony, Paul Green's historical drama celebrating the 350th anniversary of the founding of a colony on Roanoke Island by the English.

Mildred (Blair) Beatty has a daughter, Nancy Ellen, age three.

Loulie (Donalson) Hirst lives in Bryn Mawr, Penn., where her husband is connected with the Bryn Mawr Trust Company.

Nelle (Edwards) Smith of Eastman has a son, Rosser Edwards Smith, born in the summer.

Frances Eleazer spent the school year 1936-37 studying nursery school methods in Teachers' College, Columbia University, taking her M.A. degree in this field. She taught the following year at Peabody School, G. S. C. W., and Pine Mountain, and last year was in kindergarten work in the government school at Norris, Tennessee.

Mildred (Kendrick) Mathews lives at 219 Abercorn St., Savannah, Ga. Her husband, Edwin F. Mathews, is a graduate of Millen High School, studied at the University of Georgia, Georgia Tech, and the University of N. C., where he was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity. He has traveled extensively in this country and Europe. He is connected now with the Central of Georgia Railroad.

Lora (Solomon) McCord, her husband and little son, Robert III, moved into their charming new home in Shirley Hills in August.

Charmian (Stuart) Thomson has a son, Robert Kendrick Thomson, born February 2. Charmian's husband, Marvin Thomson, is sports writer for the Omaha, Nebraska, World-Herald and announcement of the baby's arrival was made in the form of an "extra" with pictures of the baby and his parents, and clever news stories said to be a "scoop" of the other papers.

Class Secretary: Mrs. R. W. Thrower (Margaret Munroe), 8305 16th St., Faulkland Apts., Washington, D. C.

Angela (Anderson) Criswell has a daughter, Carolyn, born in September.

Elizabeth Baggarly's marriage to Jewett Allen Phillips took place at the Little Church around the Corner in New York. They will live in LaFayette, Ga., where Mr. Phillips is employed as Soil Conservationist.

Boots Baldwin's new husband, Adam L. Alexander, is a lawyer in Savannah. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia where he was a member of Chi Phi and Phi Delta fraternities. He is a past president of the Georgia Bar Association, past president of the Exchange Club, member of the Yacht Club, a Mason, a member of St. Andrew's Society and of the Cotillion Club.

Winnifred (Clark) Lang's husband is a graduate at North Carolina State College where he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. He holds a position with the A. C. Monk Tobacco Company in Farmville, N. C.

Margaret (Munroe) Thrower's husband received the B.Ph. at Emory University where he graduated with first honors from the law school and was president of the university student body. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha social fraternity and the University Club of Washington, D. C. He is connected with the Atlanta law firm of Sutherland, Tuttle and Brennan, and is at present located in the firm's Washington office.

Mary Eunice Sapp, '27, and president of the Brunswick Club writes:

"Katherine Jordan's wedding was at Shiloh Church near Lumber City. She married Dr. James Benham Stewart of Atlanta and Birmingham.

"At a beautiful luncheon which Helen Snooks, Ex '35 gave for Katherine's wedding party and out-of-town guests, among others the following 'Wesleyan girls' were present: Katherine Jordan, A.B. '35; Elizabeth Jordan, A.B. '35; Louise (Caldwell) Arnall A.B. '35; Catherine (Snooks) Walker A.B. '33; Helen Snooks, Ex, '35; and myself.

"Helen Snooks, incidentally, has made a fine record in vocational education work in Swainsboro, Ga.

"Elizabeth Jordan taught school at Glenwood, Ga. this year."

Helen (Sheffield) Morgan lives in Americus, where her husband is with the firm of Oxford-Morgan Furniture Company.

Constance (Shumaker) Garrett's husband is secretary to the Hon. Stephen Pace of Americus, member of Congress. He received his education at Emory University where he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Josephine (Singletary) Hinson's husband is a graduate of the University of South Carolina with both the A.B. and the L.L.B. degrees. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. He has taken a prominent part in the business and social life of Greenville, S. C., where he is one of the city's young attorneys.

Helen (Smith) Rogero of Clearwater has a daughter, Beverly Ann, a year old in May.

Betty (Stayer) New has a daughter, Elizabeth, born in August.

Dorothy (Tinsley) Dailey, her husband, and their year-old daughter, Martha Jane, were in the states this summer on vacation from their mission work in Cardenas, Cuba. They planned their return to Georgia in time for Wesleyan commencement, and attended the Epworth League Conference at Wesleyan in the early summer.

Jamie (Tyson) Dodd is keeping house in Schenectady, N. Y., where her husband is with the General Electric Company. She writes that she is very happy, but misses her own state and wants to make sure that her address is correct on the alumnae files so that she will not miss an alumnae magazine.

Margaret (Wilson) Munford lives in Atlanta where her husband is with the commercial department of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. He is a graduate of Cartersville High school and completed his education at Emory University and the University of Georgia. He is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Class Secretary: Mrs. J. Clay Murphey, Jr., (Emily Boswell), 1029 Everett Ave., Louisville, Ky.

Ellie Ayers (Burns) Eighthmy lives in New York, 7 Gracie Square. She was married to Lee Wells Eighthmy, Jr., a graduate of Yale University, at the Church of the Transfiguration in New York in May.

Elah Holliday, Conservatory, is teaching Speech in the Tifton Schools. Elah lives in Vienna, and has previously taught in Sandersville.

Roberta (Ingle) Jolly lives in Columbus, at 3554 First Ave. Her husband, J. Rollins Jolly, is with the Bibb Manufacturing Company. He attended the University of Georgia where he was a member of the Chi Phi fraternity.

Frances McCann is cataloguer in the library at Bennington College, Bennington, Vermont. She completed her work for the B.S. in library science at Columbia University in June.

Sympathy is extended to Caroline McCarley in the death of her mother, Mrs. P. D. McCarley of Atlanta on October 8.

Margaret Stubbs studied at Emory University summer school this summer.

Dear Class:

I live at such a great distance from most of you, I feel that I know very little about you.

I saw Frances (Darby) Wood some months ago when she and J. B., her husband, were in Louisville for the day. She called me on the phone and they dropped by for a little while. They have just completed a new home in Nicholasville, Kentucky. I was sorry to learn that her mother had passed away some months before.

A few days ago I had a letter from Lou Wilkins, who left Wesleyan after her second year, and is teaching in Byhalia, Miss.

Marie (Haley) Warren has moved into a beautiful new home in Americus, Ga.

Ruth (Mahone) Harris and her husband visited the New York World's Fair this summer.

Incidentally, Clay, Julian and I moved into a new home which we just completed, and are having lots of fun fixing it up. We plan to be in Macon in December, so we will see our Wesleyan friends who are at the college.

Emily (Boswell) Murphey, Class Secretary.

Class Secretary: Mrs. W. L. M. Knox (Margaret Evans), Thomson, Ga.

It would be so much easier for a class secretary if only one member of her class wrote a prize-winning novel, or discovered some unknown element, or flew non-stop across the Atlantic, but in the case of the class of '37 where all the members are becoming "First Ladies of the Home" or doing big things in the business and educational world, it's a hard job to keep up with and write about every one.

Speaking of "First Ladies", the class of '37 seems to be no exception to the old saying that "Wesleyan girls make good wives". I sometimes wonder what society editors would find to write about were it not for Wesleyan girls. Since last fall Judy Purvis, Grace Freeman, Margaret Odum, Christine Taylor, Clara Young, Essie Davis, and probably two or three others I've overlooked, have done their part toward keeping up the "Wesleyan marriage average". So it's up to you career women now to keep us "in the news"—one way or the other.

Thanks to Margaret (Mitchell) Edwards, Catherine (Moate) Heard and Mildred (Drake) Herndon, our class now boasts three brand-new mascots. (Apologies to Fathers Edwards, Heard and Herndon for being unable to accompany this announcement with loud fanfares.)

Parky Culpepper, GEA President Mark Smith's right-hand man, insists that she's done nothing spectacular to bring glory to the class of '37. However, the needlepoint that she's planning to begin this fall, may mean a way to pass the long winter afternoon, or it could mean that Parky's looking ahead.

Gerry Dorsey no longer hails from Abbeville. Gerry now lives in Cordele where she's making herself quite indispensable around her dad's law office. Mr. Dorsey wagers that she's the highest paid pencil-sharpener in the state. P. S. Couldn't resist that, Gerry!

Evelyn Shell and Billie Wilkinson are two small town girls who've gone to the big city and made good. Evelyn's really "in the money" so-to-speak. She works in the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank.

Many of our classmates are glorifying the teaching profession. Harriet Wright, assisted by the superintendent and a few others, keeps Moultrie High one of the top Georgia schools. (Wonder how many times the pupils have caught her napping.)

Kathryn Hall is teaching in Cuthbert.

Since graduation Sara Harrell has gone in for art. She thinks nothing of whipping up a masterpiece every day or two. The reason that you haven't seen any of her work on magazine covers and such is because she's holding out for a private showing at the Metropolitan. However, I'm still not convinced that it's the "old masters" rather than the young that she's most interested in.

Beth Studstill is still "wintering" in West Palm Beach and having grand trips to New York every summer.

Hazel Birch began her career as a teacher but has forsaken the teaching profession for social welfare work in Macon.

Margaret (Evans) Knox, Class Secretary.

Blanche Doster is teaching in the Swainsboro grammar school. She taught for two years in Jesup Junior High School.

Grace (Freeman) Dennis lives in Valdosta, where her husband holds a responsible position with the C. C. Varnedoe Company.

The announcement of Anne Griffin's engagement to Dr. T. S. Gatewood was made October 1. Dr. Gatewood is a graduate of the University of Georgia Medical College where he was a member of Chi Psi and Alpha Kappa fraternities. He interned in New York, and later served as house physician in the Patterson hospital in Cuthbert, where Anne taught. He is at present resident physician at the University hospital in Augusta.

Elizabeth (Lewis) Ross is teaching in the domestic art department of Miller High School in Macon this year.

Martha Ruth Livingston, who taught last year in Dalton, has a position as clerk to the principal of Lanier High School for Boys in Macon.

Caroline Mallary is teaching physical education at Wesleyan Conservatory this year. She also has her own private dance studio at Forsyth and College Streets, and teaches physical education at Mount de Sales Academy in Macon, so her days are full.

Margaret (Mitchell) Edwards has a son, Miller G. Edwards III, born August 19.

Margaret (Odom) Rader lives in Jonesboro, Ga., where her husband holds the position of district engineer for the Georgia Power Company. His mother, Mrs. Alice Richardson Rader of Byron, is connected with the Historical Documents department of the Congressional Library in Washington, D. C.

Martha Olliff is teaching Biblical literature at Andrew College, Cuthbert, Ga., where her father is president. Last year she was director of religious activities at Hawthorne Lane Church, Charlotte, N. C.

Frances Townsend is happy in her new work as music director in the Clayton, Georgia public schools. She was at Camp Laurel Falls this summer, and wishing to stay in the mountains this winter, went to see the superintendent of schools about a job, with the very satisfactory result of being able to do just what she likes most, to teach music to children, many of whom have never had any music in their lives, but have a natural love for it. Frances was in Macon in October to sing in Anne (Griffin) Gatewood's wedding, visiting Caroline Mallary. Frances also sang in Grace (Freeman) Dennis' wedding in June.

Clara (Young) Jordan's new husband is a graduate of the University of Georgia, and is connected with the extension system of the University in the soil conservation program. As his work carries him out of Macon a great deal of the time, the couple will make their home with Clara's mother on Cleveland Avenue, and Clara will keep her position in the Macon school system for this year.

Class Secretary: Margaret Turner, 1307 Morrison Avenue, Tampa, Florida.

Elizabeth (Brogdon) Tart lives in Jacksonville where her husband is in business with his father in the Tart Cooperage Company. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia, and a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Elizabeth (Buff) Morgan lives in Moultrie where her husband is connected with Swift and Company.

Florence (Crisler) Lawrence's husband is a graduate of the Atlanta Law School and is an alumnus of the University of Georgia. He is connected with the Etowah Manufacturing Company, and the couple make their home in Canton.

Jeannette Deaver is recreation director at Sunny Hill Presbyterian school at San Anselmo, Calif. During the summer she was a counsellor at Camp Juliette Low in Cloudland, Ga., teaching dramatics and chorus singing.

Joe Estes entered the Draughton School of Commerce in Atlanta in September.

Annette (Gardner) Taylor lives at 1115 S. 23rd St., Birmingham, Ala. Her husband is with the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in Birmingham as warehouse and construction superintendent.

Elizabeth (Harris) Griffith's husband is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, and his first station is at Randolph Field, where he is a member of the air corps.

Frances (Houser) Haskell won third prize of $145.50 last spring in a Norge refrigerator contest for an ad which she submitted. The ad was produced in a Charleston, W. Va., newspaper.

Dear Classmates:

I have a card from Margaret Turner asking me to send in news of our class. I am amazed when I think about each of you and realize how little I know about you! So many of us are married, it looks as if Wesleyan were running a matrimonial bureau, but most of what I know about these young matrons is what I read in the papers. Hanson (Hayes) Higginbotham, who lives now in Macon, visited Mary (Guerry) Sharpe in Connecticut this summer, I hear.

Cornelia (Anthony) Sned (and by the way, she now prefers "Cornelia" to "Corn") is keeping house in Charlotte, N. C.

Mildred Scruggs is again teaching in Plains, Georgia.

After a year with the Fulton County Board of Public Welfare, Bernardine Smith is going to Tulane to study social service this fall.

Mary Ella (Wilkes) Jackson has given up teaching for housekeeping in Hogansville, and "Jack" says she really can cook. (That's thanks to Miss Chaplin.) Millie, Bunny and I were in the wedding.

As for me, I've settled down to the prosaic routine of being a bank clerk, but I love it. I'm doing Wire-Transfer work at the First National in Atlanta. Doris (Everitt) Shepard is doing temporary work at the bank in addition to keeping house.

Dot (Lunsford) Giles had a honeymoon at Lakemont, and now after a trip to Boston by boat, will live in Cambridge, Mass.

Dolores Bussey has given up her job here to live in Savannah with her family.

Lib Bowers is teaching again in Royston.

Sincerely,

Susan Magette, Class Captain.

Dear Class:

I will give you some excerpts from our "round robin" letter which eleven of us keep going spasmodically.

Eunice Ann Munck describes her summer activities as a "monastic system", by which she means she stayed close home most of the time. "I ventured to Lake Wales last week," she says, "and saw Tim (Tillman) Gooch and her little girl, Anne Stuart, who was a year old last March. Anne is very cute; she has big blue eyes, but doesn't have Tim's features."

Ruth Neil Menges spent the summer in Minneapolis taking treatments destined to remove her glasses eventually, and in New York with Dorothy Fletcher, just looking around. She will teach again in West Palm Beach, and Dorothy will remain in Jupiter, Florida, where she will teach French.

Mary Yancey Pittard went to Emory Summer school, and spent the remaining time at her home in Monticello. She resigned as teacher of the sixth grade in Williamson so as to get an elementary grade.

Alberta Trulock is getting along famously as editor of the Bibb Recorder in Macon. As to her whereabouts this summer she says, "My travelog sounds like a tin boat in a bath tub in comparison with all you New-York-and-points-west farers. But believe it or not, I have been out of Georgia. The only thing I regret is that it spoils the nice standby of a story I used to have about never having been any farther north than Atlanta, west than Dothan, and south than Tally."

Betsy White has a position in the Atlanta Public Library. She says, "I seem to be getting along as well as anyone expects. Everyone is sweet to me when I do something terrible. They just laugh and make me feel worse, and I go right back and make the same mistake at least five more times."

Martha Bird Garrison has spent her summer at home in Clarkesville and visiting her grandmother in Atlanta.

Rebecca Gerdine is finding life interesting as a bread-winner. "I am living in Nashville with Mary Ethel and we both are working for the Methodist Board of Missions. Jo Board was here when I came and she tells me she is to teach Spanish in a North Carolina college this fall. Eva Baggett, who is Mrs. C. L. Scott, Jr., now, lives here. She has two children."

Of course you know about Edith Hoeflich, who is back at Wesleyan as assistant in the library. She finished her library course at Emory University in June.

That's all of our eleven but me. I've jumped about in my usual erratic way. I spent five weeks in summer school at Southern College in order to get some education credits so I could find out what's on the other side of a teacher's desk. Then I went to New York for a month. The Fair was what I went to see, but I found so many things in the city, I almost forgot there was a Fair. Now I'm home and today the good news comes that I have a place in a Junior High School here. In my excitement I forgot to ask what I am to teach, but I suppose it is English.

And here's to Wesleyan for the best year ever!

Margaret Turner, Class Secretary

Ursula Lowrie was married on August 19, 1938 to Edmund Spencer Burn in Easton, Conn. Her husband is an alumnus of Norwich University. Her present address is R. F. D., No. 1, Bridgeport, Conn.

Mary Louise Cordes went to New York this summer. She is now Fifth District Chairman of the Wesleyan Exhibit at the Southeastern Fair to be held in Atlanta. She is staying at home this winter, and studying voice.

Barbara Davis, her mother and sisters, spent the summer traveling in Europe, visiting France, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, England and Scotland. On the way home they took in the New York World's Fair. Barbara is teaching first grade this fall at Porterdale, Ga. She came by Wesleyan on her way to the new job, and was the first 1939 alumna to sign in the Alumnae Guest Book.

Ann Maria Domingos is a cadet teacher in the Macon school system this year. She took a business course this summer, and also had a delightful trip to New York and Washington.

Margaret Edge is teaching piano, public school music and musical appreciation in Berry, Ala.

Margaret Gaillard is taking a full secretarial course at G.A.B. School of Commerce in Macon this year. She enjoyed a trip to Daytona Beach, Fla., during the summer.

Frances Gaines is attending the School of Medical Technology at Emory University and will be there 18 months to complete her master's degree. During the summer she was counselor in the Macon Girl Scout camp near Lizella, and then visited in North Georgia and South Carolina.

Mary Leila Gardner is studying music and education at the Mississippi State Teacher's College in Hattiesburg, working toward the B. M. degree.

Martha Graddy is teaching in Haddock, Ga., where, with four friends she has an apartment and is doing light housekeeping. She visited her cousin, Elizabeth (Schuessler) Cobbs of the class of '29 in Gadsden, Ala., this summer, and enjoyed talking Wesleyan with her. She also saw Clara (Jackson) Martin, A. B. '32, who lives in Gadsden.

Kathleen Grady is living at home and studying at G.A.B. School of Commerce.

Ellen Groover spent the summer visiting in north Georgia and Sea Island Beach and touring Florida. She is teaching public school music and French in Leslie, Ga.

Clare Grovenstein is at present at home, but expects to go in November to Asilomar, California to take a course in Professional Girl Scouting. She went to Camp Chowenawaw in Jacksonville, Florida, this summer for a ten days' training course, taught swimming at Martha Johnston Camp near Macon, and in August directed Day Camp in Macon. The latter part of the summer she visited in Atlanta and Savannah.

Dot (Guinn) Curry's wedding took place in the First Methodist Church in LaGrange. Jean Bell was maid of honor. Jack graduated from Tech High School in Atlanta, and attended Duke University and Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn, where he was a member of the Sigma Nu fraternity. He is now associated with his father in business a manufacturers' agent in several southeastern states.

Elizabeth Hodges is teaching fourth grade in the Robert L. Osborne School near Marietta.

Ora Hollis is teaching public school music and voice at Ocilla, Ga.

Elizabeth Johnson enjoyed short trips to Florida and the mountains this summer. She says she expects to spend this year doing much the same thing.

Eloise Johnson is teaching piano and public school music in Soperton, Ga.

Joanna Johnson is teaching Latin and English in Milner, Ga.

Marybeth Jones is teaching sixth grade in Richland, Ga. She spent a week in New York this summer visiting the World's Fair, and enjoyed also visiting some of her Wesleyan friends.

Billie King is teaching at Pine Hill School, near her home town of Bainbridge, Ga.

Bascom Knight writes that she is being quite busy being a "young lady" and having a grand time playing. She plans to be in Georgia in the fall to be in a wedding, and will visit Wesleyan. She and her family had a trip through New England during the summer, and later Bascom visited in Georgia and Alabama.

Christine Lewis is teaching piano in Fayetteville, Ala.

Peggy McGehee was among those who went to the New York World's Fair this summer. She is now taking a business course in Atlanta.

Addie Rie McKellar says: "You can't imagine how far from Georgia this seems! I do miss Wesleyan. I am teaching all four years of English and second year French in the high school in Ivanhoe, Virginia. I also play for chapel and help with the girls' basketball. Later I will coach the senior play. This summer I went to New York, Washington, Baltimore, Williamsburg, Norfolk, Jamestown, and Newport News. Then I went to Mary Washington College at Fredericksburg, Va. I visited in Roanoke, Virginia, and Erwin, Tenn., and was in Macon ten days."

Margaret McKinnon will have her private piano studio in Winter Garden, Fla.

Caroline Malone spent the first part of the summer in New York and Cincinnati. She did some work for Wesleyan as field representative later. She was planning a trip to California in October, but her father's serious automobile accident prevented her going. He is recovering now, and Caroline plans to study organ and piano in Atlanta with Dr. Charles A. Sheldon and perhaps travel later in the year.

Jane Martin is taking bookkeeping, shorthand, typing and business English in Orlando. She had a job for six weeks in the summer.

Winifred Milam is taking a business course in LaGrange this winter. She went to the World's Fair in New York this summer.

Irene Moyer is teaching in the high school in Eufaula, Ala., and says she believes she could not have secured a position that suited her better.

Mary Candler Neal began August first to teach in Valley Point School, Whitfield County, Georgia, very near her home town, Dalton.

Clara Puckett is teaching music in the public schools in Tifton. She studied for six weeks during the summer at Juilliard School of Music in New York, and attended two teachers' forums at the University of Georgia.

Shirley Rehberg is teaching English and French in Sale City, Ga. She visited Beacon Hill Beach, Florida, this summer and attended Vacation Bible School.

Molly Ray Respass is teaching fourth grade in Perkerson School, Fulton County System. She kept house much of the summer, and went to the beach for a month.

Dorothy Rountree is back at Wesleyan Conservatory, where she received a scholarship in music for this year.

Dolores (Schatzman) Smith's wedding in September was one of the most beautiful that Macon can remember. It took place in St. Joseph's Catholic church at 6:30 P. M. The church was beautifully decorated with exquisite flowers, green foliage, and tapers. Eugenia Anderson was one of the bridesmaids. After the wedding, Mrs. Daniel C. Horgan, Dolores' aunt, entertained with a reception at her home in Rivoli. Dolores and her husband live in Macon, at 296 College Street.

Mary Lovett Sharpe went to the New York World's Fair with Sally Smith this summer. They visited Dot Wink and Virginia Percy, A.B. '38, who were studying at Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School in New York, and also visited Beth Arnold, Ex '40, in Highland, N. C., and Jean Bell in Mobile. Mary Lovett was in Dot Guinn's wedding September 9.
